PANORAMIC VIEW OF BRIDGE BUILDING SITE

will be brought up to a hopper with a capacity of 155 tons of the mixture. A similar conveyor can be seen just off the end of the chute, which will be used to wash, grade, and mix the gravel and sand mix before it is put into the concrete plant. In the centre of the photo is the south graving dock where bridge pontoons will be built. The bottom of the excavation is 16 feet below lake level. To the right of the south basin is the north graving dock in a more advanced stage of construction. On the extreme right is the administration and equipment storage area.

City electrical workers request review in wages

Possibility the city may be faced with a new round of wage increases, was seen by Mayor J. J. Ladd this morning.

The city electrical workers' union has requested the city to re-open contract negotiations to review salary schedules.

Recently the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, AFL, local 1409 obtained a 35 cent an hour wage boost after negotiating with four local firms. Under the new agreement, inside wiremen will receive $2.25 an hour. The city electrical workers have asked council to bring the wage schedule up to the level of other electrical workers.

Last year city council signed three-year agreements with several unions. The agreement calls for raising wages up to 1958. The present agreement with the electrical workers expires on December 31, 1958. A journeyman electrical worker is presently paid $2.34 an hour, with a three cent increase in 1958. A second class linemen receives $2.13 with a similar increase next year.

Probes complaint of crews taking city trucks home

Ald. Arthur Jackson told city council this week that he had investigated the complaint that city workers are taking trucks and other equipment home during the lunch hour and said the matter will be left to the discretion of the public works department.

Mr. Jackson said it is more economical for a man to work up to 12 o'clock noon, and to resume work at 1 p.m. Another major factor is where the men are working.

Annual meeting

The 33rd annual general meeting of the Kelowna and District Rod and Gun Club will be held at 8 p.m. in the Canadian Legion Hall next Monday. Included on the agenda is committee reports, election of officers, discussion of fish and game matters as well as a showing of films.

Two films to be shown of interest to bird-dog lovers are, "The Way of a Field Champion," and "Dog and Gun."

Request for TV now before CBC

Okanagan residents may know by this weekend whether they will have their own television station. Board of governors of CBC will sit Friday and Saturday in Ottawa to consider the joint application of the three radio stations in Vernon, Kelowna and Penticton. If approved, a station would be built in Kelowna with two satellite outlets at Vernon and Penticton.

James Browne will request a permit on behalf of the broadcasting stations. A local spokesman did not see any reason why the application should not go through. However, the situation is somewhat different to other applications; in that two satellite stations are involved.

Meanwhile Alvin Angus, project manager of Black Knight Television Co., announced that the wired TV co-axial cable system has been installed into Rutland. Wednesday afternoon technicians were testing circuits.

The company plans extending the co-axial cable system to Kelowna and other rural areas providing there is the demand.

Mill rate boost predicted due to rising school costs

Table shows steady rise in school costs

The following table shows comparative education costs over the past five years. It will be noted that since 1955, when the new education formula was set up, there has been a steady increase in school costs, over $100,000 to be exact, when compared with the 1957 budget. Main complaint of municipalities is that the government is not paying its fair share of the increase. The government has promised to review the existing formula next year. Teachers salaries have been mainly responsible for the steady upward trend.

Kelowna faces $82,582 hike

City taxpayers can expect an increase in the mill rate this year. But whether it will be five mills as indicated by Mayor J. J. Ladd will depend on how much money council can pare from estimates of various civic departments.

Aldermen received a rude jolt this week when presented with the 1957 school board budget which totalled $530,699, an increase of $152,720 over last year.

Glenmore and Peachland municipal heads were equally indignant over the increase, but after an hour-and-a-half session of discussing details of the proposed estimates, they resigned themselves to the fact there is little they can do about it.

Mayor J. J. Ladd later told The Courier that council will approve the budget. The last time Kelowna took the matter to arbitration, it cost the municipality $10,000. At the same time, however, he warned that taxpayers can expect a mill increase, due to education costs.

Based on last years assessed values, the boost represents an increase of five mills. Under the 1957 assessments, the hike would be about three mills. Majority of other municipalities are facing a three mill increase, brought about by higher school costs.

GOVT GRANTS
Total budget amounts to $1,250,560 of which the three municipalities and the rural area have to pay $530,699. Broken down the component parts of the $530,699 expenditure will be shared as follows with the increase over last year in brackets:
Kelowna, $283,055 ($82,582); rural area, $201,273 ($57,701); Glenmore, $32,948 ($8,741); Peachland, $13,422 ($3,696) total, $530,699 ($152,720).

The gross expenditure of $1,250,560 will be whittled down by $719,861 in government grants and other forms of revenue.
Teachers' salaries alone totalled $197,184, an increase of $13,772 over 1956. Teachers were granted a ten per cent wage boost under a new agreement recently concluded.

Percentage wise, the costs are shared: Kelowna 49.31 per cent; Glenmore, 6.74; Peachland, 2.34; rural area, 42.61 per cent.
Reeve G. W. Hawksley represented Peachland and Reeve Phil Moutbray, Glenmore. Also present were key employees of the three municipalities along with around 15 senior high school students.

REVIEW BUDGET
School board chairman C. E. Sladen and secretary Fred MacKinnon reviewed the budget for the trustees.

In summarizing council's feeling, Mayor Ladd said that while he had no quarrel with the school board, it is council's duty to keep costs down. "It's the taxpayer who has to pay the shot," he remarked. He questioned the reaction of local landowners if the tax levy is upped.

Gov't will pay cost erecting park archway

Provincial government will defray the cost of erecting a suitable exit from the City Park when the new bridge causeway is completed. Deputy highways minister E. S. Jones has asked the city to undertake the work and send the bill to the government. Attractive log archways have been constructed at other park entrances. Cost has been estimated between $1400 and $1800.

Have you donated blood?

Red Cross is rapidly approaching its objective of 1,000 pints of blood during the current three-day clinic.

Up to last night a total of 676 people had volunteered blood during the two days. The clinic, located in the United Church hall, concludes tonight and will move on to Winfield Friday.

Wednesday afternoon 99 people donated blood and an additional 207 in the evening. Of the 306 donors, 45 were new.

Local blood donor clinic officials are pleased with the response.

Blue blood, maybe?

The Red Cross blood donor clinic's call for 1,000 pints of blood in Kelowna brought out the Packers hockey club in a group to give what they had left after the hockey season.

"Are you sure you're going to make it?" Moa Young solicitously asks Bug Jones, feeling his forehead.

Must decide soon

Recreation building now looming as possible Kelowna centennial project

(By George Inglis)

Searching for a centennial project for the city of Kelowna hasn't been quite as wide-spread as the search for the "fountain of youth", but it has been equally as unrewarding. Nobody, least of all the centennial committee, has been able to come up with an answer so far.

Swimming pool, museum, chronic hospital, and even an auditorium, have all been mooted as possible projects—that is until the finances were figured.

Possibly the only project so far that comes within the bounds of finance, and seems to fill a need for the greatest section of the people, is the recreation building, now in the discussion stage.

This building, the most recent proposal, came into the light as the result of a fortunate misadventure. When the city's pet white elephant, the exhibition building, burned down recently, Alderman R. F. Parkinson was a spectator at the blaze.

IDEA GERMINATES

The germ of an idea sprouted in Alderman Parkinson's head that Saturday morning as he watched the flames lick away at the old structure that had housed many a capacity crowd in the old days of basketball in the city.

"Why not take the money from the insurance," he reflected, "and apply it, along with the city's centennial project expenditure, and the provincial government grant, to erect a recreation building that will be of use to a great number of the city's sports and recreation organizations?"

This building could be put up at the corner of Gaston and Bligh, utilizing the badminton hall as part of the structure, and act as a multi-purpose building.

The most attractive part of his plan was the amount of money involved, which would be in the neighborhood of $90,000, most of which would come from insurance, city and province. This amount compares with $110,000 for a swimming pool, and $100,000 for a chronic hospital.

On top of that, the Boy Scouts Association in the city have been interested in turning over the money they had acquired from the sale of their hall, in return for a club room and the use of the building.

And the badminton club has been approached to see if they would turn over their equity in the building to help the cause along.

If adopted as a project, the building would take in the present badminton hall, using it as a gym. The floor would be re-finished and treated, and a ceiling put in to retain the heat. Along the Gaston

Audience leaves theatre humming popular songs after seeing play

By "THE BEAVER"

A new musical aggregation was born here Tuesday night, and judging from audience reaction, Kelowna Productions can take an honored seat beside its counterpart, Kelowna Little Theatre.

If the first-nighters who went to the Empress Theatre Tuesday evening expected to see a group of amateurs stumble through the musical production "Oklahoma!" they were doomed for disappointment. Adjectives will not describe the exhilarating performance turned in by the 50-odd members of the cast. The make-up was excellent; scenery was outstanding while the music under the direction of maestro Mark Rose matched the fast-setting pace of the production.

CONCLUDES FRIDAY
The four-night run of "Oklahoma!" will conclude Friday. Unfortunately many people have been unable to procure tickets for the performance. Despite numerous requests that the show be extended, officials explain they are unable to do so due to circumstances beyond their control.

The enthusiastic first-night audience little realized that one of the leading ladies, Elsie Newick, got out of a sick bed to play her role. Miss Newick had been suffering from a week from an infected throat, and missed five last-minute rehearsals. Another star, Gloria Holmes had also been ill, while Red Hughes was recovering from a bout of the flu. And last but by no means least, Harold Pettman filled in the difficult role of Jud Fry less than a week before production deadline.

Frank Bishop, production manager, did an excellent job in casting. The entire group is composed of housewives, store clerks, school students and teachers, along with one or two business men.

Elsie Newick was particularly becoming in her role as Laurey; Bob Emalle, as Curly, surprised many people with his vocal talents as did Bob Renaud as Will Parker. Edythe Walker, a comparatively new-comer to Kelowna, was a "natural" in her role as Aunt Eller and Gloria Holmes, the girl who couldn't say no as Ado Annie Carnes was remarkably appropriate.

FILLED BREACH
Red Hughes literally brought down the house in his part as Al Hakim, and Harold Pettman, had little trouble in taking the role of Jud Fry. Sombre-faced Pettman's acting was outstanding in view of the fact he filled the breach at the last minute.

In the dance department, Marjorie Northon and Dave Chapman executed their routines with expert skill. Miss Northon, of course, is an expert toe wiggler, but for the

OILERS HOST VICTORIA IN FINALS

On these broad shoulders rests the B.C. Interior senior "B" basketball championship, and Kelowna's hopes for a provincial crown for the first time since 1938.

Teddy Bears take thriller and interior hoop crown

Kelowna Meikles' Teddy Bears, the women's senior "B" team, duplicated last weekend's feat by the B.A. Oilers, when they slid by Rutland high school girls' team by two points to take the hard-fought series three games to two.

The thrilling recovery by the Kelowna team in the last eight minutes of play brought them back from a 15 point deficit, and gave them the lead.

A bitter note in the evening of triumph was the behavior of the fans, who stormed the floor and surrounded the officials—Wally Janicki and Al Munk of Vernon—hurling abuse.

The irate crowd stormed the court, reviling the referees, and claiming they had cost the Rutland girls the game, due to two of their stars fouling out.

Sharon Campbell and Marg Fielder, the girls who have been the big guns for the Rutland club, were fouled out in a game that saw plenty of penalties. Phyllis Ramsey also was side-lined.

Actual count of penalties was 11 for either side in the first half, and 16 for Kelowna compared with 15 for Rutland in the second half. Aggie Heltman threw the win. Kelowna had Marg Vansantan, Bev Pitt, and Frances Taylor, three burst forth. As the result of the win, Kelowna will host the Victoria girls, winners of the coast division, in the provincial finals next weekend.

Golf deadline

Golfers wishing to join the Kelowna Golf and Country Club this year will have to get in under the wire before May 16, or it will cost them an additional $20 entrance fee, club officials announced.

Effective May 16, all new members will be subject to an entry fee of $20, for the following classes: Regular membership (yearly or half-yearly); ladies, men, man and wife ($20 only).

Locals seek clean sweep in basketball playdowns

Playoff hockey in town tonite

Kamloops Junior Elks and the Junior Packers clash in the local arena tonight in the fourth game of the round robin series to decide the Okanagan-Mainline Junior championship. Winner of this six game series will host Trail for the B.C. title.

Kelowna trails Kamloops by two points with one win and one loss. Kamloops has two wins and no losses. Vernon lost both games they have played.

A win for Kelowna tonight and another Saturday against Vernon here coupled with a Kamloops loss in Vernon-Sunday would wrap up the series for the Packers.

Game time is 8 p.m., in the Kelowna and District Memorial Arena.

Canucks beat Flyers, first B.C. finals

SPOKANE, Wash. (CP) — The Vernon Canadians Wednesday night took a 1-0 lead in their best-of-seven Savage Cup finals against the Spokane Flyers as they knocked over the Flyers 4-2 here.

The Canadians took a 1-0 lead in the first period only to have the Flyers tie the game early in the second. Before the second period was over the Canadians again moved one goal ahead of the Flyers.

Vernon made the score 3-1 early in the third. Spokane desperately tried to make a comeback but they only managed one goal after the Canadians added their insurance marker.

The Canadians four goals were equally distributed between Tom Steyer, Walt Trentini, Ted Laboda and Mark Macquess. Carl Cirullo and John Zahara notched both of Spokane's tallies.

The two teams meet again in Spokane Friday and Saturday before the series moves to Vernon.

The winner of the series will receive the Savage Cup and the right to travel to Eastern Canada for the Allan Cup finals. Last year the Canadians beat out the Flyers in seven games and then went on to win the Allan Cup.

Westbank junior girls in valley hoop playoffs

WESTBANK — The junior girls' basketball team of the George Pringle High School carried off the honors in the tournament, held in Kelowna on Saturday, when they played teams from Kelowna, Summerland and Rutland for the championship of the Central Okanagan. The results were: against Kelowna, 29 to 10; Summerland, 20 to 10; and Rutland, 20 to 7.

Kelowna B.A. Oilers will be out to take the senior "B" provincial crown this Friday and Saturday, but they will be up against their toughest opposition of the season in the Victoria Dickenson and Dunn's, gings of coast basketball.

For Kelowna, it will be the second time in 18 years they have faced the prospect of winning the provincial title—last time they won it. The stranger-than-fiction coincidence is that their opponents in their last attempt were Victoria, 18 years ago.

CHANCES GOOD

Oilers' coach Hank Tostenson makes no bones about their chances. "We can win," he says, "but it will be by out-running them. You are not going to have too much chance of out-thinking that outfit. They have the savvy, we will have to have the legs."

A win for Kelowna this weekend will give them the triple crown—the Okanagan Valley, B.C. Interior and the province, and it will write a sweet fable to a year prospect.

Last fall when coach Tostenson took census, he was only sure of about four men. It didn't even look like he would be able to floor a team at all.

But help started arriving from several sources. Bruce Butcher, a former Kelowna ball player, returned from his stint to New Zealand and Australia.

CAPTAIN RETURNS

Bill Dean, a former Oiler star, and this year's captain, quit his job which had transferred him from the city, and came back here to work for the Kelowna Bridge Co. and play ball.

Bob Radies and Bill Martino, two Cliver basketball stars, didn't like the way things were going with the Penitence Omegas, and decided to make the road trip up to Kelowna just to play ball. Bud Englesby joined them in the trek after a few trips.

Later in the season, Ross Lander returned from the U.S., where he had been attending college, and joined the team.

COME-BACK KIDS

With the cloth to work on, Tostenson tailored a hand-fighting crew that don't know enough to say die. Against Kamloops, they scored their victory by a last-minute upheaval, sparked by Englesby, to take the valley crown.

In Prince George, they blasted their way back from behind, with the big trio of Radies-Martino-Dean netting 97 points out of 115, to take the interior crown.

This weekend, starting Friday night in the high school gym at 8:30 with the second game on Saturday, they will try to make it unanimous.

But it will be tough with names ohmy Clarke, 6'4", star, Howard Tooby, 6'2", forward, and George Denison in the line-up. Topping the list, of course, is Norm Baker, playing-coach, and rated just a few years back as one of the best in the business.

Golden Owls drop tournament opener to North Surrey, 44-21

Kelowna Golden Owls, the senior high school basketball team, dropped their first game in the B.C. tournament at the UBC gym in Vancouver, losing 44-21 to North Surrey.

The Owls, champs of the interior in an upset win, have one more game to drop in their two-game knockout tournament, before they are eliminated.

Trail juves on B.C. threshold

The Trail juveniles continued their march to the provincial on Monday night, downing the Vancouver Canucks 6-3 in curtain-raiser of their two-of-three final.

Vancouver held the fast-skating, well-conditioned Trail club to a 3-3 tie going into the third frame, strictly on the hat-trick effort of centerman Allan McLean.

In the final frame, the Trail club erupted for three goals, and a clean win.

Trail goalie Bruno Forlin stopped plenty of rubber, and tried to stop a couple of forwards as well, drawing two minors for swinging his stick.

Gerry Dennis (2), Ed Christoff, Hargrave Merio, and Aiken were the Trail marksmen.

GOALS SCORED BY TEAMS WHILE PLAYING SHORTHANDED

It is really quite an accomplishment when a hockey team is able to score a goal while the opposition has a one or two man advantage. However, every once in a while it happens that a team playing shorthanded will score against their opponents. It happened 20 times during the first 140 games of the present season.

Leos will roar into Kelowna for summer training again

Information received just before dead-line has confirmed the fact that the B.C. Lions will be returning to Kelowna for their third training camp in succession, from July 6 to 22, with the big inter-squad game winding up their camp.

The only stickler in their complete enjoyment of the set-up here seemed to be the lack of air-conditioning in their living quarters—but the Royal Anne Hotel came through with an assurance they would air-condition the whole top storey for them, and that turned the tide in favor of the Orchard City.

Fifth Ogopogette bonspiel invades local curling club this week-end

The 5th Annual Ogopogette Bonspiel, staged by the Kelowna Ladies' Curling Club this Saturday, Sunday and Monday, will have a total of 28 rinks of the distaff curlers contending for the host of prizes.

The curlers, 13 of the rinks from such outside points as Prince George, Penticton, Summerland, Peachland, Vernon, Salmon Arm, Revelstoke, and Kamloops, will start curling at 9 a.m. Saturday.

The 32 women curlers visiting prizes and cups in four events—the Orchard City and the 60 local two open and two events for the curlers will have plenty of entertainment lined up for them during their three-day spile.

Saturday night they will attend a banquet in the senior high school, and they will start things off on Saturday morning with a coffee party. Sunday morning they will have a special breakfast at Verne Ahrens' lake-side home.

Interior champs

The Meikles' Teddy Bears, Kelowna's senior "B" basketball team, wrote another page in the glowing record of achievement for the Orchard City this year in the hoop game when they defeated Rutland senior high schill girls last night, 40-38, to take the best-of-three series for the interior championships.

Pint-sized pageantry

Colorful pageantry and pint-sized revellers are all a part of the big figure skating club's annual show, slated for Saturday, March 23 in the arena.

A total of 140 youthful performers, every one of them local talent, will perform in gay costumes to lilting music under the watchful eyes of the club professional, Mrs. Jean Ross Beaton.

These pictures show some of the performers taking part in the show, one number of which will be a beautiful adaptation from the fairy-tale "Cinderella".

Local figure skating club will present ice frolic in memorial arena Mar. 23

"Cinderella", an exciting fairy-tale extravaganza with more than fifty of Kelowna's talented young skaters is a feature of the Ice Frolic of 1957, March 23 at the Kelowna and District Memorial Arena. The Kelowna Figure Skating Club plans both an afternoon and evening performance.

Cinderella, the Fairy Godmother, Coachman, a Footman, and a Prince Charming and the Ugly Pumpkin too. The music of "Three Sisters" will all be there, along with "Blind Mice" will usher in ten little mice, a Coach, Horses, a Pumpkin and the wretched witch, the wretched little mice. In addition there will be solos by senior skaters, plus entertaining numbers such as the Ballet in Blue, Dresden Dolls, Street Scene and Home on the Range complete with Pistol Packing Momma and the Rodeo Queens.

Art Vipond has spent many hours helping Mrs. Jean Ross Beaton, club professional and producer, of the 57 Ice Frolic, with the musical format of the show. Ice decor will be by long-experienced Mr. Edric Oswald and the costume committee is headed by capable Mrs. J. D. Orwell.

"Cinderella" will be bright with gay music, colorful costumes and exciting scenic effects. Music from the Broadway musical hit, "My Fair Lady" will accompany several numbers: Lorraine Smith as Cinderella will skate to "I Could Have Danced All Night" and Fairy Godmother, Gail Gwilliam, a glittering figure in silver and white, will sparkle across the ice to the strains of "On the Street Where You Live". Later Cinderella, a fairy-tale picture in apricot satin, will waltz with her Prince Charming, every inch a prince in bottle-green velvet and white lace ruffles.

Step-sisters, Susan France and Lynne Blackey, in red taffeta, and step-mother, Elizabeth Hoover, smartly gowned in green and white stripes, will do their best to keep Cinderella from going to the ball. But a thrilling moment will come when the Fairy Godmother with a wave of her magic wand sends Cinderella off to the ball in an enchanted coach drawn by six princeling white horses, gaily harnessing in red. Yes, there'll be a

The Duke, Joan Hodgkinson, in blue satin brooches, and Messenger Penne Dodd, in turquoise velvet with featured cap, will be courtly figures indeed. And the Court Ladies and Gentlemen will be most effective in their vivid jewel colors as they circle the ice to the strains of the stately French Minuet.

The pre-school kiddies will be enchanting as they skate in the guise of blue and yellow birds, and rose-colored flowers. Most enjoyable will be the clever black-and-white cat, the polly cinnamon dog with the yellow spots, and last but not least... the skunk. The principals of "Cinderella" are all eight to ten years old with the exception of five-year-old Penne Dodd, the messenger.

A delightful contrast to the fairy-tale atmosphere of "Cinderella" will occur later in the program when Mr. and Mrs. Van der Vliet, runners-up in the Veterans' Dance at the 1957 Western Canadian Figure Skating Championships in Calgary will star in a dance number. To the rhythmic music of "Charlie Kunz" "Carousel Medley" they will feature dance routines that have pleased Kelowna in the past.

The skilful dancing on ice of this talented pair and the exciting spectacle of "Cinderella" are but a wave of her magic wand sends Cinderella off to the ball in an enchanted coach drawn by six princeling white horses, gaily harnessing in red. Yes, there'll be a

Kamloops takes lead in junior hockey series

The Kamloops Junior Elks took a two point lead in the round robin series to decide the Okanagan-Mainline Junior hockey championship, defeating Kelowna 6-5 last night.

Kamloops now has four points, Kelowna two while Vernon has two losses. Kelowna's two remaining games are now at home, with Kamloops here tonight, and Vernon here Saturday night.

KELOWNA 5-KAMLOOPS 6

Losing the game was a heart-breaker for the Kelowna boys. They were leading 5-4 up to the ten minute mark in the third period when Kamloops took advantage of a series of penalties.

Outstanding for the Packers were Colin McCormick in goal, Jim Tompkins on defence, and centerman Dennis Casey.

Defensive lapses cost Kelowna two goals, with three opposing forwards coming down on one defenseman, with the rest of the team trapped.

John Urban and Nick Bulach each got two goals for the locals, with Mas Matsuda adding the extra point.

A. Wozniak led the Kamloops attack with a hat-trick, including the tying and winning goals. Other scorers were Bruce Harrison, Morio Sakaki and Bud Gannon.

Seven penalties were handed out in the wide-open game, four of them to Kelowna. Shots on goal were, by Kamloops 64, by Kelowna 45.

KELOWNA 7-VERNON 3

Mas Matsuda led the Kelowna club to a 7-3 win over Vernon juniors Monday night, with two goals, and also set up Dale Pyett for another to gather three points.

Best for Vernon was Bud Nistor with a brace.

Kelowna took the lead at the 6:24 mark in the first on a goal by Bulach, with Nistor tying it up 24 seconds later. John Urban and Dennis Casey scored in the first frame, Casey's goal coming while he was penalty-killing, giving Packers a 3-1 lead.

In the second frame, on goals by Mas Matsuda and Dale Pyett, the Kelowna crew ran the score to 5-1 before Nistor again replied for the Blues. Bob Boyer and Mas Matsuda added two more markers to end Kelowna scoring.

Steve Uzik scored the last goal of the game, at 19:19 of the last frame, while his team had a man in the penalty box.

Kelowna outshot Vernon 33-20 in the game. Goalie Boris Kabatoff played an outstanding game between the pipes kicking out some sure goals.

Referees Sarge Sammartino and Fred Janicki handed out 14 penalties in the game, seven to each club, including a major apiece. Dennis Casey was given a 10-minute misconduct after arguing with the referee over a fighting penalty assessed him.

HAYWIRE RIGGING

There's a plaintive loggers' song that adequately describes the situation with the Packers' hockey club over the period of the past few years:

*It's a haywire rigging, and a haywire crew,
And if I don't get out of here, I'll be haywire, too.*

The confusion and dissension that have become synonymous with senior hockey in Kelowna is due in large part to the manner of operation of the executive, rather than the individuals concerned. Parliamentary procedure or rules of business have had no part in the running of the club.

The executive meetings have been either roundhouse battles or quickly executed kangaroo courts for the most part, with the bulk of the executive being given little or no opportunity to express themselves, and even less opportunity to take an active part in administration.

Player negotiations, involving large sums of money, have been made without full cognizance of the parties concerned, i.e. the chairman and two members of the players' committee. These negotiations have included the hiring, firing and chastising of players.

Coaches' authorities have been flouted in many cases, and the team's mentors have been disregarded in negotiations of vital importance to the club's welfare.

Comprehensive annual reports from vital executive posts have been ignored in the report to the community, other than the cold facts and figures of finance. In particular, the vital salaried member of the executive—the coach—has never been permitted or encouraged to make a report to the people, who are the team owners.

Public relations, the most vital part of any business, particularly in the entertainment field, have been practically disregarded, with the majority of the deals perpetrated by the peoples' executive being carried on incommunicado.

All this has resulted in a number of unhappy and undesirable situations, gravely affecting the welfare of the sport in Kelowna, and most certainly upsetting the tranquil relations between the hockey players and their fans.

And without players and fans, what have you?

SPECIFICS

Let's look at a few of the unhappy instances during the past season that in no way enhanced the hockey picture in the Orchard City:

1. The executive unanimously re-hired Moe Young as coach for 1956-57, then fired him five home games after the season had started. Irrespective of their reasons for this action, which were never too clearly outlined to the public, this does not show firm, decisive action on the part of management.

2. A spare goal-keeper, Don Moog, offered to stay in Kelowna if employment were found, and work for $20 per game if needed, but he was studiously ignored. As it transpired, this additional member of the hockey club, who would have cost nothing, would have been worth his weight in gold.

3. The unrealistic approach to player potential on hand resulted in the executive refusing to let Young go to the prairies to scout new players, preferring to attempt to negotiate with some known players by phone, wire, or letter. As a result, Kelowna once again spent a season of wishing.

Mayors press for greater federal gov't Bible needed assistance in civil defence program in Russia says speaker

A re-organization of civil defence forces in the North Okanagan, as a measure of protection against war and other disasters appears to be a possibility in the near future, following the return of Mayor Frank Becker from the Canadian Civil Defence College in Annapolis recently.

Mr. Becker was among 100 mayors from across Canada attending a special civil defence conference sponsored by the department of National Health and Welfare.

Mayor J. J. Ladd also attended the conference, at which a last-minute resolution was passed, asking the federal government for financial aid to carry out the CD program.

It is likely that Mr. Becker will make the findings of the conference known to other municipalities in the area at a meeting with North Okanagan municipal officials to be held within the next couple of weeks.

While some of the subjects covered by the Annapolis conference are still on the restricted list, it is known that the government regards the present situation, under which there is virtually no civil defence organization, as very serious.

Through the medium of the conference at Annapolis it is trying to get this idea across to municipalities, which it hopes will organize grassroots civil defence—the only kind which is liable to work with any efficiency.

The conference advocated that all levels of government, federal, provincial and municipal, give earnest consideration to ways and means whereby there can be brought about a greater decentralization of the urban economy of Canada.

In the opinion of conference heads, in order to maintain a sustained concern and interest in CD, particularly by the elected officers of municipal governments, it was recommended that an occasional briefing conference on CD matters be organized by the federal CD authorities.

Also advocated was that all levels of government give consideration to removing existing bottlenecks, and the construction of more arterial highways if necessary to move persons from an area attacked by atomic weapons.

Expert leads in revival of fencing

WINNIPEG (CP) — With four active clubs and an infusion of new skill introduced by immigrants, fencing is making a comeback in Winnipeg. Before the Second World War, Winnipeg fencers at one time or another held every Canadian fencing championship.

Expert fencers such as Ann Vander Bos from the Netherlands and Jan Macek, who describes himself as a "cancelled Czech" give this city hope of Canadian titles once more coming back.

Ann is considered a bright prospect for the Canadian women's championship. Trained at The Hague, she has been a finalist in international tournaments at London and Paris. Macek is a former member of the historic Prague club, the "master of the long sword." He won the Pacific international foil championship in 1950.

"PERFECT SPORT"

Fencing is one of the sports governed by the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada, and Canadian championships are held annually usually at Montreal or Vancouver. Provincial championships will be held in Winnipeg next spring to qualify for the Canadian tournament.

Experts say that fencing is the perfect sport as a conditioner for physical training. It develops muscular tone and endurance, and teaches concentration of both mind and effort. Light blades and protective masks and jackets remove any chance of personal injury.

Normally a person learns to fence with a foil. It is the lightest of three fencing weapons used and was formerly a practice weapon for the rapier. In competition a padded tip of the foil touches an opponent's body in a manner that if it were sharp, it would penetrate.

The epee, modern equivalent of the duelling sword, must score in the same manner but may hit the opponent anywhere.

REZONE PROPERTY

P. Schellenberg has requested the city to rezone property at 2160 Bertram Street to make way for an apartment house. Matter was referred to Ald. Bob Knox after the letter was received at this week's council meeting.

FIRE DEPT. NEWS

Kelowna Volunteer Fire Brigade answered four calls, all chimney fires, since Monday. In the same period, the ambulance made two trips.

Fire protection area discussed at Winfield

WINFIELD—The regular monthly meeting of the Father's Institute was held Tuesday in the Memorial Hall with twenty-five members and visitors present.

A thorough report was made by the special committee consisting of John Green, Mel Arnold and Jack Green that had been set up to investigate the possibility of forming Winfield into a fire protection district. As a result of this report a motion was passed that the former's institute sponsor a public meeting in the near future to explain the benefits and costs of such a move.

John Green, one of the two representatives of the Father's Institute, gave a report on the centennial meeting and asked for suggestions on when and what form the centennial celebration should take. These will be forwarded to the centennial celebration committee which will study them together with suggestions from other organizations in the district and decide what the community should do to celebrate B.C.'s 100th birthday.

Jack Green, member of the Hungarian Refugee Committee, reported that there are now six Hungarians in the district, three men, two women and one child. He asked that anyone having work to contact a member of the committee.

Immediately following the Father's Institute meeting a short meeting of the Winfield Volunteer

Exercise routine to herald spring

Exercise is unexpectedly rewarding. It takes only a small measure of stretch-bend-swing to help you feel silken slim and supple. Truly, it is the initial start of slimness that is a hurdle.

Next week spring will be welcomed in between now and spring you can come alive. Listen to this promising report:

"I never really believed in exercising before, but I started with a TV program and exercised a few minutes a day. Even though I've lost no weight, my bust, waist and hips have all slimmed down two inches and I feel much slimmer."

Ease into this tip-of-ice spring tonic routine and skip nary a day. Position: Lying on back, with right knee bent, left leg straight down.

Movement: Stretch all along left side, pull hold and release slowly. Repeat three times on each side, holding the stretch to slow count of six.

Position: Lying on back, with both knees bent, soles of feet on floor, have palms of hands resting on thighs.

Movement: Raise head and shoulders off floor, sliding palms of hands toward knees. Hold to slow count of six. Repeat three times.

Movement: Stretch arms back on floor behind head as you lift.

Position: Lying on back on the floor, knees bent, arms at sides. Lift off floor to straight line. Do not arch back. Tighten buttocks muscles and hold to slow count of six. Repeat three times.

Position: Lying on left side, head on folded arm, legs straight down. Movement: Flex right knee briskly toward chest, shoot leg straight down, then swing vigorously toward rear and hold. Do this to count of 1-2 swing-hold. Repeat eight counts, change sides and swing again.

If you are curling calories but the pounds and inches prove stubbornly resistant, it is because you are not using enough fuel. Add the above streamlining routine to stimulate circulation and tone muscles. You'll be glad you did!

Mrs. Derkson funeral rites Friday, 2 p.m.

Funeral service will take place Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock for Mrs. Mary Derkson, late of 1018 Cawston Avenue.

Final rites will be at the Evangel Tabernacle, with the pastor, Rev. W. Cameron Stevenson officiating. Interment will be at the Kelowna cemetery.

Pallbearers will be: Leonard Smith, Aaron Sauer, Al Durocher, Harry Koop, Anthony Kaiser and Robert Switzer.

Mrs. Derkson succumbed in the local hospital Sunday after a brief illness. She was 77 years of age and had been a resident of the city for the past nine years, coming here from Grenfell, Sask., where she and her husband farmed and where he predeceased her in 1942.

She was born in Germany and had been in Canada for the past 32 years. She and her husband, Henry Derkson, farmed first at Abernethy, Sask., and then later at Grenfell. Surviving are three sons and six daughters: Kornelius, Indian Head, Sask.; Henry, Grenfell and Abraham, South Edmonton, Alta.; Mrs. W. (Susan) Epp, Garden View, Alta.; Mrs. C. H. (Mary) Strickland, Vancouver; Miss Annie Derkson, Kelowna; Mrs. G. (Helen) Stacy, Saskatoon; Mrs. J. (Kay) Falcon, North Battleford, Sask.; and Mrs. S. (Alma) Hodgson, Saskatoon. Twenty-four grandchildren also survive.

Kelowna Funeral Directors have been entrusted with the arrangements.

It's a great day for the Irish

"Faith, an' it's time for all goid Oirishmen to lay down the shillelagh and don the ever-green shamrock this Sunday. It's the seventeenth of March, the day when our St. Pat chased all the snakes from the Ould Sod, or something of the sort."

Whatever the occasion, St. Patrick's is the signal every year for all good Irishmen the world over, to take time out to celebrate according to their several tastes, be they Bushmill's or just plain tea.

Laggards "out"

Local school heads agree no place for non-workers

School officials in Kelowna agree with Dean Neville V. Scarfe that there is no place in B.C. schools for students who will not work, and keep others from working.

Dean Scarfe said during a recent address in Victoria, the plan of mid-term expulsion of indifferent students now used in Calgary could be used in B.C. as an "immediate" step to cure the problem.

G. F. Johnson, inspector for school district No. 23, commenting on the dean's remarks said, "This problem is most serious in secondary schools, but every effort should be made to give the student a good chance."

Mr. Johnson was of the opinion that a student should only be expelled when everything else has failed. He said next year the board hopes to obtain the services of a full-time consultant or student counsellor to look into student problems which arise.

The inspector said two questions are asked before a drastic measure such as expulsion is taken: "Is the laggard a student doing the school any good," and "Is staying in school doing the student any good."

High school principal James Logie said he thought Dean Scarfe's remarks were very provocative, and that the UBC education was speaking in generalities, not referring to any one area.

Mr. Logie said most cases of students detrimental to classes occur in grades nine and ten, where some pupils lose interest due to poor work habits learned in lower grades.

He said the majority of these usually eliminate themselves, and to expel those who do not is a serious proposition.

CONSULT PARENTS
"We consult with both the student and his parents before any action is taken," said the principal. "We deal with this problem on an individual basis and try to do what will be best for the child."

Secretary-treasurer for School District No. 23, Fred Macklin said much of the trouble is caused by parents who compel children to stay in school. In this way, the student is attending classes under protest and refuses to work.

He said if all measures of consultation with the student on his parents are of no avail, and the student is just taking up room in the school, not working, and disrupting the class routine, "we don't want him."

Budget

five mills "and what will the public think when a $19,000 school construction bylaw is presented for their approval?"

(School District 23 had indicated a by-law for new school and additional classrooms will be presented to ratepayers in early April).

Mr. Ladd said Kelowna was better off under the old education formula. He suggested the government keep the municipalities' share of sale tax revenue and pay for all school costs, other than the basic ten mill levy which is presently assessed.

Mr. Macklin said the board had endeavored to keep costs to a minimum.

"The whole province is affected the same way," he said, adding most municipalities are facing a general three mill increase. He agreed teachers' salaries are responsible for the largest portion of the budget boost. At the same time, however, he said boards have to keep pace with increased school populations which necessitate more teachers. Mr. Macklin remarked.

SALARY INCREASES
Referring to salary increases, Mr. Sladen said the agreement concluded with teachers was "satisfactory." He stated the figure was well in line with other centres. Janitors were also given an increase. Present scale of janitors is still lower than that paid by the city, and a shade lower than that paid in other industries, Mr. Sladen said.

Mr. Macklin then discussed the budget, point-by-point with council. One of the reasons for the teaching account being up is that new teachers are being budgeted for this year. There are 172 teachers in the school district, 21 more than on the payroll at the same time last year. Seven more janitors have also been employed.

A new bus had to be purchased for Oyma students.

Mr. Ladd said he was concerned over the $82,582 increase which represents a boost of 54 per cent. Capital expenditures are also up 16 per cent, he noted, whereas government grants are only up eight per cent.

His forecast, though, it was unfair for the government not to share any increase in teachers' salaries. Seventy-five per cent of the $82,582 boost was for teachers' salaries and increased teaching staff, he noted.

RELIEF IN SIGHT?
In answering several questions posed by city comptroller Doug Herbert, Mr. Macklin said some relief may be expected next year as the present education formula is scheduled to be revised.

Council agreed they had no quarrel with the school board. Ald. R. F. Parkinson summed up the criticism by saying "It's the only chance we have to sound off."

In conclusion, Mr. Ladd requested the board to hold down all capital expenditures as much as possible in the hope the government will increase grants next year.

The city has until March 31 to accept or reject the budget.

Former city merchant passes away
Andrew Patterson McGregor, a prominent dry goods merchant before selling his business about three years ago, died suddenly in Victoria Wednesday. Death was believed due to a heart attack.

Mr. McGregor operated McGregor's Dry Goods store at the corner of Bernard and Ellis streets for several years. He was widely known in the merchandising field, and for many years was employed by the T. Eaton Co. (Western) Ltd. in Calgary. He moved to Victoria about a year ago.

Mr. McGregor retired from Eaton's shortly after the last war, due to ill health. He moved directly to Kelowna, where a long-standing friend, C. D. Mitchell had already taken up residence. It was then that he decided to re-enter the dry goods business.

Besides his wife, he is survived by a son, Glen, Vancouver and a daughter, Florence (Mrs. Murray Haworth) in Vernon, and four grandchildren. A son, Bruce was killed in the air force in 1944.

Glen McGregor also operated a photographer's studio in Kelowna for many years before selling his business and moving to Edmonton. He recently took up residence in Vancouver.

Remains are being forwarded to Kelowna where funeral services and burial will take place. The time and place will be announced later by Day's Funeral Service.

Former local man dies in Kootenays
Arthur Henry Bielby passed away in Grand Forks hospital last Monday.

Mr. Bielby was born in England 79 years ago, coming to Canada as a young man and to Kelowna district over 45 years before moving to Grand Forks, B.C. two years ago.

He is survived by a niece, Mrs. Domanica, and a nephew, Erwin Bielby, both of Vancouver.

Funeral service will be held from Day's Chapel of Remembrance on Friday at 3 p.m. Rev. H. P. Mallett officiating. Burial will follow in the Kelowna cemetery.

Day's Funeral Service Ltd. is entrusted with the arrangements.

Recreation

Avenue side of the hall there would be shower rooms, boiler room, lavatories, change rooms and locker rooms. This section would be available to the softball, baseball and Little League players, by a separate door.

Bleachers, accommodating 260 people, would be erected along the 53'x102' floor, and a ring for judo, boxing or wrestling set in at the east end of the floor.

The new section of the building, on the Richter Street side, would be laid out to accommodate the badminton club, the Boy Scouts, and contain an athletic room, with weights and muscle building equipment on the main floor. This layout would be subject to recommendations of a special committee formed from the various athletic and recreational organizations.

The second floor might contain rooms for recreation and a dormitory that could be used in illegal time. This storey would also be laid out according to the findings of the special committee.

At present, however, the plan is only in the talking stage, and eventual chairman Art Jackson says there is nothing they can do until the people come up with some indication as to what they want.

The main essential in any plan now seems to be speed, since the deadline for declaring the project is rapidly drawing near, and something will have to be decided on or Kelowna will have missed the boat entirely.

Rising school costs

City of Kelowna is once again caught in a squeeze play, and, as in bygone years, cannot do much about it. The city faces a 54 per cent increase in school costs compared with last year, or in dollars and cents, a boost of $82,582.

Kelowna's share of the total budget is $283,055, while municipalities of Glenmore and Peachland are facing proportionate increases.

We have no quarrel with the school board. Trustees are doing a good job, and are endeavoring to keep costs down to a minimum, but there is something radically wrong when the city is handed a bill of goods with a take-it-or-leave-it attitude.

Actually, council Monday night merely went through the formalities of protesting the increasing costs of education, knowing there was nothing it could do about it. The city's hand was forced because the department of education had already approved the budget submitted by Kelowna School District 23. So what chance would the city have in appealing it? The last time school expenditures were taken to arbitration, it cost taxpayers $10,000, and then only a few dollars here and there were knocked off the estimates.

Under the revised formula of assessing education costs, the city did get some relief a couple of years ago, but expenditures have since increased to such a point that the government is not paying its fair share of the bill. For instance the district must foot the entire bill for any increase in school teachers' salaries. While this year's school budget shows a 54 per cent increase over last year, in so far as the city is concerned, government grants have been upped only eight per cent.

The only consolation council has is that the Bennett administration has promised to revise the existing formula next year. But that doesn't help a municipality which is trying to meet the needs of a growing city during the current year.

The city's share of the social security and municipal aid tax is more than taken up by school expenditures. In order to get down to a more realistic basis, the government would be well advised to take over the entire proceeds of the sales tax, and other than a basic ten mill municipal levy, shoulder the entire cost of education.

From figures submitted to council, it would indicate an increase in the mill rate can be expected. But there's a limit to what taxpayers can stand.

"Oklahoma"

Hats off to Kelowna Productions! The company's current presentation of "Oklahoma!" is indeed a credit to an ambitious group which undertook to produce Rodgers and Hammerstein's musical play with local talent.

An appreciative audience at the Empress Theatre Tuesday and Wednesday evenings indicates there is a definite place in the community for more of these "refreshing" productions, and the newly-formed group can rightly take its place side-by-side with Kelowna Little Theatre. We are sure many people who saw "Oklahoma!" the first two nights would like to see a repeat performance tonight and Friday were seats available.

It was no mean task weaving together a nucleus of players to fill the various roles. To production manager Frank Bishop; musical director Mark Rose and many other key workers, we say "Well done."

Kelowna audiences will be looking forward to future productions by this aggressive group.

A worthwhile book

One of the most interesting books to cross an editor's desk each year is that issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics and called "Canada Year Book". The latest edition, which has just reached us, has a new dress. The traditional dark green cover has been replaced by a light blue with the Canadian coat-of-arms in gold.

But, though the dress may have changed, inside the book is just as crammedful of information about Canada as its predecessors. The 1280 pages contain a number of special articles as well as a wide variety of information of current interest. Included are such things as a brief historical sketch of the census with a statistical summary of the principal enumerations; an enlarged survey of scientific, medical and industrial research; an analysis of trends and developments in the fishing industry; manufacturing production in western Canada; a progress report on the construction of the St. Lawrence Seaway accompanied by maps; a survey of oil and gas pipeline developments; an account of broadcasting in Canada as well as up-to-date basic material dealing with such subjects as agriculture, vital statistics, public health, forestry, mining, manufacturing, domestic and foreign trade, hydro-electric power, construction, public financing, banking, insurance, labor, and a thousand other things.

In short, the book is packed full of information of interest and value to every person interested in Canada and thinks Canadian. The book is available at a nominal cost to all businessmen and teachers from the Queen's Printer, Ottawa.

Value of museum

In view of the current local interest in a museum building, the following remarks by the Victoria Colonist regarding the B.C. Museum will be of interest:

When provincial funds are available for the purpose, a new B.C. Museum would be one of the most attractive and soundest investments the Province could undertake. Whether in full association with the provincial archives and an art gallery or built separately, such a structure would fulfill a long-demonstrated want. British Columbia has some preserved records that are unique in Canada, if not also in the world. Half a century of gathering Indian artifacts, the journals of early navigators and pioneers, and a piecing together of the record of the Pacific Coast as it came under settlement from fur trading times on form an essential part of the history of Canada.

Precious material in provincial hands has never been seen by the public because there has been no possibility of displaying it. That is true of exhibits in the small Museum of National History which has been developed since the time of B.C.'s first Parliament, and it is abundantly so of the provincial archives and its written records. Both institutions through lack of space have become mere repositories of treasures which cannot be seen nor displayed. The loss is our own and it cuts both ways, for neither British Columbians nor their visitors can make any worthwhile use of these assets in their present stored state.

For that reason one is glad to see the subject revived by Mrs. Haggen in the present session of the B.C. Legislature. Every government in office at James Bay in the last half century has known the frustrating condition that prevailed; and most of them sincerely desired to relieve it. Other needs came first and nothing resulted. That has been going on now for a long, long time. If it is the aim of the present administration to take action on the matter, such a step would certainly never be regretted. British Columbia has everything to gain from putting these assets on view under proper conditions. From the day it was built a modern B.C. Museum of Natural History would prove an immense drawing card in the capital city.

The Provincial archives could make an effective contribution to such a structure, and their removal from the Connaught Library would restore needed space there. The suggestion of expanding the plan to include a provincial art gallery also is a good one. All three purposes could be combined well in the same plan. The Province has an ideal site for a composite structure on its Belleville Street frontage, facing the Empress Hotel. The initial costs might be high, but there can be no question about the lifelong returns. They would be cumulative and multiplying. Every phase of British Columbia life could be demonstrated under ideal conditions in an unrivalled setting. "Show Window" is the right term; not could British Columbia find a better one.

"Little election" in Great Britain causes interest

From London, England
Bureau of Thomson Newspapers

We are having a little general election here at the moment—at least, that is how the main parties are regarding the hustings of the past few weeks. Most jubilant observer is the opposition leader, Hugh Gaitskell. Most disconcerted: Harold Macmillan, who has still to fully settle in yet to Sir Anthony Eden's job.

Already announced is the fact that Britain is to get U.S. guided missiles. But manufacturers point out that Britain too could have had her own missiles by now if Staff Officers here had not assessed after the war that there would be no major world conflict until at least 1957.

IOF officers are installed at Winfield

Glenmore council is given review of health unit work

WINFIELD — The annual installation of officers of Court Penitentiary 1028 and Court Winfield, 203, Independent Order of Foresters, was held in the Winfield memorial hall.

It was attended by 50 persons from Penitentiary, Kelowna, Vancouver and Winfield. The installation and after singing O'Canada, the high court officers were introduced.

Following the installation, chief ranger R. Fochler called upon brother "Sigh" Kobayashi, court deputy, to welcome the dignitaries and fellow members. The high court ranger then addressed the gathering and was followed by other court officers.

The meeting then adjourned followed by a short program of games and dancing. Brother "Sigh" Kobayashi acted as emcee. Janet Jardine sang two songs, "I'm in the Mood for Love" and "Blues in the Night". Jerry Stowe gave two solos on his trumpet, "Birth of the Blues" and "Twelfth Street Rag".

Mrs. L. Stowe sang "Kentucky Babe" and "One of These Days". Ron Holitzki on the accordion and H. Reddeco on the violin played two numbers, one being composed by Mr. Holitzki. Between each number and later for dancing, "Sigh" Kobayashi, Mrs. A. Porter and D. Lodge entertained with dance music. Refreshments were served at midnight.

The monthly meeting of the afternoon branch of St. Margaret's Guild was held at the home of Mrs. N. Hitchman, Monday, with seven members attending.

Arrangements were made to cater lunch and dinner for the staff of the Red Cross blood donor clinic, which will be in the memorial hall, Friday, March 15.

Plans were also made to hold a card party in St. Margaret's parish hall, March 29. Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting.

The monthly meeting of the W.A. of the United Church was held at the home of Mrs. L. Stowe, March 11, with hostesses Mrs. L. Stowe, Mrs. A. Porter and Mrs. S. Taiji. There were 22 members present.

GLENMORE — N. E. Suddaby, Glenmore representative of the South Okanagan Health Unit, presented a progress report on the work of the Unit for 1956 to the council at its meeting last week.

In presenting his report he paid tribute to the officers of the unit, Dr. D. A. Clarke, director-secretary; Ivor Jackson, Trepanier, chairman; and Fred Alcock, sanitarian. The South Okanagan Health Unit has a staff of 23 trained public health workers including 14 nurses; also four school medical inspectors, eight dentists and four stenographers.

The cost in 1956 was $100,000, 85 per cent of which was paid by federal and provincial governments, and 15 per cent by local contributions. Besides the officers noted above, it has eight municipal representatives, six school district trustees and three government agents.

The board meets four times a year to study the health, needs and developments in the Health Unit. It acts as an accurately informed group on health problems to interpret and guide the work of the health unit personnel and to ensure the administration of the health act, the municipal act and the school act.

HIGHLIGHTS OF REPORT
Mr. Suddaby outlined some of the highlights of 1956 which included Salk polio-vaccine administration to 9,658 children; medical examination and inspections—1,837; nurses inspections and school health services to pupils in 56 schools—12,213.

Over 500 children in grade one were served in the preventative dental clinic, financed jointly by the boards in school districts No. 17 and No. 23, together with the Health Unit.

Tuberculosis control chest X-ray examinations totalled 4,562 and communicable disease services were administered to the number of 1,718. Construction began on a new Health Centre in Penitentiary.

In sanitation and hygiene services, the sanitarian covered safe water supply, safe milk supply, safe food disposal, safe sewage and garbage for school children.

It was found that 70 per cent of irrigation-domestic water systems that were tested throughout the district showed contamination that failed to meet the accepted standard for safe drinking water. The Kelowna and Glenmore water supply is one of the safest in the valley as tested by the health department.

Exchange vows at double-ring rites

DR. AND MRS. J. R. NICHOLSON

The First United Church, gayly decorated with daffodils, stephanotis, pussy willows and tulips, was the scene of a pretty double-ring wedding when, Rev. D. M. Perley united in marriage Barbara Joan Guy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Guy, 2415 Pender Street, to Dr. John Roy Nicholson, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Nicholson, Fort William, Ontario, on Saturday, March 9, at 2:00 p.m.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a floor length gown of ivory satin brocade with lily point sleeves. Her fingertip veil was held in place with a Juliet cap and she carried a bouquet of Johanna Hill roses with Stephanotis.

The bride's attendant, Miss Anne Neill, Vancouver, B.C., chose a floor length gown of Dove Blue and carried a bouquet of yellow roses. Dr. Robert Miller of Vancouver was groomsmen. Dr. Vern Fraser and Mr. Alan Guy ushered.

During the signing of the register Miss Betty Manning accompanied by Dr. I. Beadle on the organ, sang "O Perfect Love."

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Guy chose a light grey suit with blue accessories, and Mrs. Nicholson, mother of the groom, chose a blue suit with pink accessories.

The reception was held in the Aquatic lounge with 75 guests present. The bride's table was centered with a three tier wedding cake, with white candles on either side and roses surrounding the cake. Mr. R. Cunningham proposed the toast to the bride and was responded to by the groom.

Presiding at the urns were Mrs. G. N. McTavish and Mrs. R. Cunningham. Servicers were Miss Doreen Blyth and Miss Rita Honstein of Vancouver.

Octogenarian, Mrs. R. P. Empey, celebrates 89th birthday

Mrs. R. P. Empey, 2260 Speer Street, will celebrate her 89th birthday tomorrow. Despite the handicap of being confined to a wheel chair, the octogenarian took time out to write a short story of her life. A private dinner party is planned in the evening, to which several close friends of the family will be invited.

"Eighty-nine years old tomorrow! What a long time to have lived to be sure and yet, it doesn't seem very long when I look back over the years."

Leeds County was my birthplace and I was Samantha Sheldon before the good looking school teacher changed it. Such a lucky girl I was to have been chosen by the idol of the community. We were married in 1895 and after teaching school for five years we came out west for my husband's health. We farmed and homesteaded nine miles north of Edmonton. There was no bridge across the North Saskatchewan river at that time so our household goods had to be brought across on the ice.

MOSQUITOES BAD
"The mosquitoes were so bad in the spring that we had to burn bugles all the time. It was from one of these smudges that the barn caught fire. The men were gay and how was I going to get those two horses out of the burning barn? I managed to do it and the men called me their $400.00 woman."

"There was an Indian camp quite near us and often we could hear the tom toms playing in the evening. We learned a few words of Cree and it was fun speaking another language."

"One evening we wished for a camera to catch the beautiful sight of the stately deer that came right into the yard. The cows were frightened of those strange beasts, jumped over the fence and of course scared away the lovely deer."

"If I told you all the things that happened while we lived in the west there would not be room in your valuable paper for anything else."

"My husband used to tell me about going up to the parsonage to spend an evening with the Knox boys whose father was the minister in the Methodist church in Addison, Ontario, and how the boys went to school together. Dr. Knox is here in Kelowna. It is a small world, isn't it."

SETTLED IN KELOWNA
"Another favorite in Kelowna, Rev. Perley, was a small boy when his father was the minister in my home town. I was happy to find that he is living here now."

"My husband and I lived in Alberta for 51 years. When he retired we sold our place in Edmonton and went to live close to our married daughter, Mrs. Frank Redmond. My husband died in 1951 so I gave up housekeeping and went to live with my eldest daughter who is a home missionary. I fell and broke my hip when I was in Winnipeg and have been dependent on a wheel chair or someone's arm ever since."

"Now I am in Kelowna living with my two other daughters. Kelowna is a picturesque place, with the wonderful lake and the mountains all around. The beautiful flower gardens here are inspiring to look at. God has dressed the earth so magnificently that when we look and admire its beauty it tends to draw us close to Him, the Giver of all good gifts."

Mrs. R. B. Empey, and daughter, Miss H. Empey, a public health nurse.

Goin's and comin's at Glenmore

Alberta wedding of interest to Kelownians

The first wedding in Alberta to follow the rites of the Baha' World Faith was celebrated recently at the home of Dr. and Mrs. A. B. Irwin, in Calgary, when Miss Mary Campbell became the bride of Dr. Donald Kidd.

Dr. Irwin conducted the ceremony for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Woods of Kelowna, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Kidd, of McKenzie Island, Ontario. He read the Marriage Tablets and special prayers and readings from the Sacred Writings of the Baha' World Faith which express the divine basis of marriage.

Dr. Irwin is chairman of the Local Spiritual Assembly of the Calgary Baha'is. One of the requirements of a Baha' marriage is the consent of parents of both bride and groom.

The bride's matron of honor was Mrs. M. F. Marshall. The groom's brother, George Ross Kidd, of Bathurst, N.B., was groomsmen. Toast to the bridal couple was proposed by Gordon O. Scott.

On their return from a trip to Mexico, Dr. and Mrs. Kidd will reside in Edmonton where Dr. Kidd is working with the research council of the University of Alberta.

CONDUCTED TOUR

Twenty-seven Kelownians experience mild reaction to tidal wave which was felt in Hawaiian Islands

Twenty-seven Kelownians experienced a mild reaction of the tidal wave which struck the Aleutian Islands, the southern coast of California, and the Hawaiian Islands last Saturday. The waves reached a height of four feet, damaging property 20 feet back from the shore.

The party left Kelowna over two weeks ago for a 14-day tour of the islands. They were about to start on their homeward journey, when the tidal wave struck.

All the Kelownians who visited the Hawaiian Islands agreed a conducted tour is the best way to see Hawaii. The day of their arrival in Honolulu, the group enjoyed an all-day drive around the island of Oahu, seeing many attractions enroute. They were driven in black eight-passenger Cadillacs. The drivers of the "Caddies" are of Hawaiian descent. There are very few true Hawaiian people left on the island.

OTHERS JOIN PARTY
The Hawaiian people "Live as we ought to live," says Jack Thompson, leader of the group of 38. "The people cannot do enough for you or for their fellow men." Eleven people from Vancouver joined the Kelowna party.

Another highlight of the Hawaiian tour, was the trip on an eighty-five foot yacht to Pearl Harbor where they saw "Battleship Row," the sunken USS Arizona and the stops for the cars. If a driver of an automobile hits and injures a pedestrian the driver gets his licence suspended for life, and if caught disobeying traffic rules the minimum fine is $50.00.

Another highlight of the tour was a visit to the Dole Cannery. The group was told how the pineapple is planted and picked, to the time it goes to the cannery. The pineapples they saw were grown on bushes instead of trees. The cannery employs 5,000 men and women.

While some members of the party have returned home, others are visiting coastal points before returning around the end of the week.

PROPOSED SCHOOL BUILDING PROGRAM EXPLAINED TO COUNCIL OF WOMEN BY SCHOOL BOARD CHAIRMAN

The Kelowna Council of women met recently in the Community Health centre with representatives from sixteen affiliated organizations present. The guest speaker, Mr. C. E. Sladen, chairman of the School District 23, spoke on the referendum which will be placed before the public early in April.

A sum of $225,000 is necessary to enable the school board to carry on the necessary building program. Upon the advice of the department of education, the board plans a three year program and all expenditures, not absolutely necessary, have been curtailed, he said. However, this district is expanding in population and therefore new buildings are essential. At present, inadequate basement rooms and in one instance a room in a church are being utilized. The building needs as outlined by Mr. Sladen are as follows:

Four rooms for Rutland. It is thought best to try and decentralize the school population by building two rooms in north Rutland and two rooms in south Rutland.

A four roomed school in North Kelowna, across the railway tracks.

A four roomed, expandable school in South Kelowna. This district will likely expand and therefore, the school will probably have to be enlarged in the future.

Two new rooms at Glenmore. Certain changes in existing schools must be made. In the junior high school the lunchroom, which is used very little, will be made into a second and much needed home economics room. Also extra office space will be provided. In the central elementary school the office space will be enlarged.

The time is rapidly approaching when this district will have to have additional secondary schools. So that these schools may be properly placed in the district, the sites should be purchased now.

Winfield at one time asked for a junior high school building. A referendum was passed and a certain amount was set aside for this school. However, the junior high population has decreased in Winfield and the district has not the required 250 pupils asked by the department before such a school can be built. The sum of money will be kept for at least two years.

The board feels that the school shortage can be relieved in these ways at least until 1961, he said. Education is everyone's business and so it is necessary the school board sees its way clear financially to have the building program approved. "In other words, let's get out early in April and pass that referendum," he remarked.

Mr. Sladen stated that when new subdivisions were being opened that the board has found people most co-operative in as much as they will keep in mind the need of a possible school site. So often in the past this factor was overlooked.

It will be noted that nothing is planned, in this referendum, for the westside of the lake. Such a thorough building program was implemented that there is adequate school room until 1962. However, the bridge with possible new westside settlers might throw out the board's calculations.

Mr. Sladen emphasized the real interest he found in the work of the trustees. There are so many phases that must be considered and worked out such as bus service, cost of running buses, costs of schools and maintenance, and of course the hiring of teachers. All trustees of the province agreed that they should co-operate and not have competition, but it was rather difficult to avoid competition in days of such teacher shortage.

The president, Mrs. Deans, thanked the speaker and called upon the provincial council chairman of education for the education report given at the annual meeting in Victoria.

This report dealt with increasing costs of education and with the need for more money by our university for buildings of all kinds and more and better paid staff. The new college of education under Dean Scarfe, was commended for the course leading to a degree in education, three years for elementary and four years for secondary. It was noted that many methods are being used to overcome teacher shortage. Future teacher clubs; in-training service and recruiting; expansion of bursaries, loans and scholarships; luring of ex-teachers; bringing teachers from England and especially by raising the standard of the teaching profession. When you raise standards, you get more teachers. The report quoted the results of the Canadian school trustees investigation as stating that in as much as the education of the Canadian youth is a matter of concern to the nation, then the federal government (without interfering with constitutional rights of the provinces) should work out a scheme acceptable to the provinces to help bring Canadian education to the acceptable minimum standard necessary for her future. If Canada is to progress economically and socially, the projected costs of the next 25 year period are beyond the means of the municipalities and provinces unless present restricted sources of revenue are expanded.

The education report commended on the fine work done by the councils of women in British Columbia especially in Nanaimo, Vancouver and Kelowna, although actually no council should go unmentioned.

The recent announcement made by the Premier following the budget speech namely that the provincial government would meet dollar for dollar up to $5,000,000 gifts to the university by business and industry was felt to be a real step in the right direction by the council women.

A short report was given by the Stagers Club which showed fine community service for retarded children and CARS Mrs. Stephens, convener of the depot, reported that clothing was supplied to nine newcomers to our city.

UBC extension department has unique library service

A unique "library by mail" service of the University of B.C. Extension department brings the advantages of a public library as near Kelowna residents as their own post boxes.

More than 900 borrowers from White Horse to Sooke are enjoying continuous reading the year round with a personalized library service that specializes in friendliness and speed.

"We handle 40 parcels a day containing from one to four books," explains Miss Edith Stewart, extension librarian for the past nine years, "and we try to fill requests for new books the day we get them."

Registration fee to join the library is $2 per year. Postage both ways is paid by the Extension department.

Miss Stewart, herself a born reader, thinks of all her borrowers as personal friends.

EFFICIENCY DEPARTMENT

"We get dozens of notes returned with the books," she says. Typical of the messages returned with books is this one from a lady in Osoyoos, "In addition to the usual efficiency of the department, it's the thoughtful services which add a friendly touch that is so pleasant."

All comments received go into individual readers' files so that over the years Miss Stewart has built up "a dossier of each person's tastes."

Many readers never consult the list of books available sent when they register, or the supplementary lists sent out to them every two months. They simply reply on Miss Stewart to do their picking for them, and her instinct for what a borrower might like seldom fails.

A Sidney, V.I., borrower writes, "we appreciate receiving the new books so promptly and in many instances a substitute has been an unexpected pleasure."

Most popular with extension readers is travel, biography and world affairs. Interest in handicrafts and art is dropping off, while interest in basic science is increasing.

"Our library service offers good general reading," says Miss Stewart. "It is truly a working library because our books actually wear out through being circulated!"

The extension library may draw on the resources of the main university library to fill requests.

A special feature of the extension library is the play lending service which has a collection of eight thousand plays. After selecting the play they wish to produce, groups may get help with production techniques such as direction, make-up, sets, and costuming.

A Langley Prairie reader sums up the feelings of most extension library readers when she writes: "You and your staff certainly do all in your power to make our library fee the best bargain today."

Efforts rewarded? Wood Lake may be stocked with Bass by game dept.

Small-mouth Bass may be introduced in Wood Lake, 15 miles north of here.

According to R. G. McMynn, chief fisheries biologist with the B.C. game department, the matter has been under consideration for some time, but the biologist wanted to make a careful study before taking action.

J. A. Carlson and other resort owners along Wood Lake, have been pressing for the past six years for the game department to introduce small-mouth Bass in Wood Lake. At present the lake is stocked with trout and Kokanee, but the mortality rate is heavy in view of the large number of coarse fish.

Mr. McMynn is of the opinion the bass should fend for themselves. Bass is recognized as one of the best sporting types of fish.

Jim Treadgold, president of the Kelowna Rod and Gun Club, in a letter to Mr. McMynn said that he would not personally oppose the move, providing the B.C. game department recommends the introduction. The Kelowna organization went on record opposing such a move without having more information. He thought it is up to the game commission department to "sell" the idea to the clubs in the Okanagan Lake watershed.

Following a meeting of game department officials, Mr. McMynn said representatives have agreed on the following points:

Small-mouth Bass can provide an excellent game-fish fishery under the right circumstances. Wood Lake appears to be suitable for the introduction of this species.

The trout fishery of Okanagan Lake is unlikely to be affected by the resultant spread of Bass from Wood Lake. The food requirements of small-mouth Bass and Rainbow trout overlap to some extent, but chiefly at the lower planktonic level of the food chain. This overlap should not create serious competition since plankton production particularly of the smaller species is not a production "bottle neck".

Bass are extremely piscivorous.

Patton named centennial committee head

PENTICTON — Howard Patton, vice-chairman of the Penticton Centennial-Jubilee committee, was named chairman, succeeding the late Mayor C. Oscar Matson, last week.

General agreement was reached on a pavilion on Lakeshore, as the central project after a thorough discussion of several other suggestions. But complete plans for this project were left open, so that the project can be adjusted to requirements and finances.

Though interested citizens may become a member of the open centennial organization, the working executive will comprise the general chairman and chairmen of major committees. It was pointed out this procedure is not intended to exclude help or advice that might be offered, but to streamline the organization so it will function more efficiently.

Possibility of incorporation under the Societies Act will be investigated by the secretary, H. G. Andrew.

In the discussions on projects, some new ideas were put forward. One is the Munson's Mountain "lookout" idea, suggested by the parks board; another, the development of a combined convention hall and recreational outlet near the Memorial Arena; and a third, the setting up of permanent premises for Teen Town activities.

Three members of the Penticton parks board, who attended the session, spoke of the advantages of the development of Munson's Mountain "lookout" into a tourist-sight seeing attraction.

They said this site is a unique one, overlooking the city. Cost of the project would be approximately $55,000.

The parks board idea included development of a tea room and pavilion on the hill, which, it was pointed out, would be an unexpected tourist attraction.

The second suggestion by the parks board called for development of a community center near the Memorial Arena. This would include a tennis court that could be flooded into an outdoor skating rink in winter, a combined convention hall and banquet room, with provision for youth activities.

The third proposal advanced was for the development of quarters for Teen Town. This was suggested by Mrs. Molly Broderick and Ryan Conley, representing the Teen Town movement.

F. A. Pruesse, representing the Agricultural Ratepayers' Association, suggested that if the lakeshore pavilion is adopted, it should be a complete entity, with no half-finished factors linked to it.

The committee as a whole agreed with this suggestion, and also with the idea of the pavilion on lakeshore as the project. It was stated that such a pavilion need not necessarily include a swimming pool, but would contain whatever items the general public wanted in it.

A letter from the Penticton Board of Trade expressed favor for the pavilion plan, but stated the board felt public reaction to it should be obtained.

No final outline of what the pavilion is to contain was reached. But in keeping with Mr. Pruesse's suggestion, it was agreed that if the project is sectionalized, each unit built will be so constructed that the building will be a structural and architectural whole at that stage.

Mrs. Broderick referred to the plan for holding the Teen Town conference here in 1958, stating that if Teen Town had originated in Penticton, it would be proper to have its annual session here during the local jubilee year.

Unanimous support for this plan was given by the meeting.

U-Go-I-Go club at Okanagan Mission celebrates eleventh anniversary

OKANAGAN MISSION — The ladies of the U-Go-I-Go club held their bi-monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Fred Maranda last Thursday with 23 members and the guest, Mrs. Walrod, present.

RED CROSS — The Junior Red Cross is following up its successful home baking sale with a candy sale to be held March 19.

Students are asked to donate candy which will be sold at noon and possibly after school.

It seems that this club has been much more active this year than in the past.

Y TEENS — This club held a successful bake sale at O. L. Jones' furniture store Saturday, making a $28 profit. This figure was short of the $40 mark expected but will probably be reached when all of the girls who didn't contribute bring in their money.

A house meeting with a guest speaker and entertainment is planned for next week.

Some of the girls are busy mounting the grad photos. These will be placed in the hall beside those of other years.

A far more sentence awaits these grade-school students if they disobey the student traffic guard, left. They will receive a "ticket", be tried before a magistrate and a jury of six pupils, and, if found guilty, groan at their punishment. The usual sentence is extra homework of the "I Won't Cross the Street" variety, 100 times. The safety scheme was introduced at the Cooksville, Ont. school because of lack of sidewalks in the area increases traffic hazards. Jaywalking and riding two to a bicycle are the most common offences caught by the squad of student-safety patrol "officers".

Pot luck supper held by members of Kelowna Women's Institute recently

Members of the Women's Institute recently met for a pot luck supper after which the regular meeting was held. Mrs. M. Palmer, president, was in the chair. The meeting was opened by the singing of "O Canada." Roll call was taken and answered with an Irish joke.

The W.I. 1958 project will be the sending of an Indian boy or girl to the University of British Columbia for a two months course in agriculture or home economics.

The Centennial project for the B.C. Women's Institutes is to have a cook book made.

The institute donates to "Pennies for Friendship" and up to 1956 they had put a "Picnic Nook" at the border in their "Peace Garden" at Blaine, Wash., and at Manitoba and Ontario crossings in memory of the late Mrs. Alfred Watt, who did a lot towards the betterment of the institute. She introduced them to their prayer, which is "Keep us O Lord from pettiness; Let us be large in thought, in words and deed. Let us be done with fault finding and leave off self seeking. May we put away all pretence and meet each other face to face, without self pity and without prejudice. May we never be hasty in judgment and always generous. Teach us to put into action our better impulses, straight forward and unafraid. Let us take time for all things. Make us grow calm, serene, gentle. Grant that we may realize that it is the little things that create differences. That in the big things of life we are one, and may we strive to touch and know the great human heart common to us all, and O Lord God, let us not forget to be kind." (author Mary Sewart)

The annual rally for the W.I. will be held in Oyama on May 2. The meeting was closed by the singing of "The Queen", followed by a social evening was spent with games, contests, and raffle, which was won by Mrs. J. Andrews. Hostesses were Mrs. H. Lindner and Mrs. L. Knop.

The B.C. Co-op Union will also hold its annual conference April 8 and 9 in this city.

COOKS' CORNER

A UNIQUE BIRD

Cape Code turkey is a unique creature. It has no drumsticks, no wings or no wishbone. It doesn't gobble, has no tail feathers and is never found in a barnyard. In fact it isn't a bird at all but a fish... a salt codfish.

Cape Code turkey can be used to make a variety of hearty luncheon or supper dishes. The home economists of Canada's department of fisheries tell us that one of the most satisfying and flavorful dishes of this type which they have tested recently is a casserole in which salt cod is teamed with fluffy, white rice, green pepper and onion. Directions for making this dish are simple, as you will see.

CAPE CODE "TURKEY" CASSEROLE

1 pound of boneless salt cod
1 1/2 cups cooked rice
1 1/2 cups medium white sauce
1 cup chopped onion
1/2 cup chopped green pepper
1 can so't bread crumbs
1 tablespoon butter.

Freshen the salt cod by rinsing it and then soaking it in cold water to cover for 8 to 10 hours or overnight, changing the water once or twice. Drain, cover with fresh cold water and bring to simmering temperature but do not let boil. Pour off the water and taste the fish. If too salty, repeat the heating operation. Drain and flake the fish.

Place half the cooked rice in the bottom of a greased casserole and add the cod. Sprinkle with half of the chopped onion and green pepper and pour half of the white sauce over top.

Add in layers the remainder of the rice, green pepper, onion and sauce, then top with bread crumbs. Dot with butter and bake in a moderate oven (350) till heated through and the crumbs are brown. This will take about 30 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

QUEEN OF CASSEROLES

The souffle is the undisputed queen of casserole dishes. Golden brown and proudly puffed, it's a dish which wins admiring praise from family or guests. Yet for all its charm and delicacy, it's an easy dish to make. Anyone who can beat eggs and fold them gently, can, with the help of a trustworthy oven, make a perfect souffle. A regular characteristic of this dish, however, and one not to be overlooked, is that when ready, it doesn't like to be kept waiting.

There are a great many different kinds of souffles yet all are akin beneath the crust. Basically a souffle consists of a creamy sauce, egg yolks and a flavoring substance, mixed and folded into stiffly beaten egg whites. For a light, nutritious main course dish, canned salmon makes an excellent flavoring ingredient. The following tested recipe for salmon souffle comes highly recommended by the home economists of Canada's Department of Fisheries. Nice served for lunch or supper with a salad and hot crusty rolls.

SALMON SOUFFLE

1 half-pound can salmon
2 tablespoons butter
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup liquid (canned salmon liquid plus milk to make up volume)
3 eggs, separated
1/2 cup mayonnaise

Drain and flake the salmon, saving the liquid. Melt butter; blend in flour and seasoning. Add liquid gradually and cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Beat the egg yolks until light in color. Remove sauce from heat and stir in mayonnaise and egg yolks. Add salmon. Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry. Fold in the cooled sauce into the beaten egg whites gently, but thoroughly. Pour into an ungreased 1 1/2 quart casserole. Place casserole in a shallow pan of hot water and over-poise in a moderate oven (350 deg. F.) for 45 minutes, or until set, puffed, and lightly browned. Served immediately. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Westbank water district holds annual meeting

WESTBANK — The first general meeting of the taxpayers of the Westbank Water District, recently incorporated as an improvement district under the "water act" for the purpose of acquiring, maintaining and operating domestic water works in the Westbank district, was held in the community hall on Monday evening.

There was a large turnout. The sole object of this meeting was the election of trustees for the new district.

Clare Small officiated as returning officer and chairman. The following five trustees were elected to act for the terms indicated: Nelson Rees, three years; John N. Bingham and Kuzul Tameda, each for two years; and Paul Brown and Robert E. Springer, each for one year.

Negotiations for the transfer of the present domestic water system are now proceeding between the Westbank Co-operative Water Users Association and the new Waterworks District, and it is expected that the change in ownership will become effective as of April 1 next.

A report of the recent Red Cross meeting was given, also one of the recent band concert. The 1957 convention is to be held in Vancouver, April 23 to 26, and a delegate to this meeting will be decided at the next local meeting.

Mrs. N. Bradbury, Mrs. H. C. MacNeill, Mrs. T. Coldham and Mrs. Wopp will help the Junior Red Cross on open house day at the school.

Water conservation brief studied in Ottawa

Constant pressure of the farmers of B.C. and the eastern provinces for an extension of the Prairie Farms Rehabilitation Act to serve all of Canada is now bearing fruit, Charles E. S. Wall, secretary-manager of the B.C. Federation of Agriculture reports.

"While we had hoped that a Soil and Water Conservation Act would have been placed before the House at its present sitting, nevertheless we have every hope that the present decision taken by the Government will bring some action," he states.

Because of the diversified problems in all parts of Canada involved in this type of legislation the government has appointed a Senate Investigating Committee which is holding hearings in Ottawa at the present time. The senate committee has asked the Canadian Federation of Agriculture to present a case on behalf of all provinces.

It has also been announced that the committee will hold regional hearings throughout Canada, and it is planned to present a more detailed brief during the hearing in B.C.

The following brief has been presented to the committee in Ottawa, outlining the needs of B.C. in this matter:

The 1931 census reveals that the total farm area in British Columbia is four and three-quarters million acres or only two per cent of the province's total land area. Of the total farm area only 24 per cent is improved acreage or half of one per cent of the total land area.

The fact that this improved acreage today produces an annual income to its farmers of $107,000,000 shows that it lends itself to intensive agriculture of relatively high return crops, particularly all of which are today produced in insufficient quantity to supply the B.C. domestic market.

Federal Soil and Water Conservation Act embodying assistance on the following points would not much towards obtaining the optimum use of our limited farm area, bringing better returns to farmers and placing them in a position to fill a larger percentage of B.C. consumers' food requirements which today have to rely so heavily on foreign imports.

In a province where, of very necessity, agricultural land is located in the valleys bordering fast-flowing, mountainous rivers and streams, we are faced with continuous loss of this arable land by river erosion.

This continuous erosion of some of the best farmland ranges from the many fields, which are eaten away by rivers at the rate of about 10 feet depth of bank per year to the more extreme cases where entire farms have been washed out of existence in one year.

While a considerable portion of this erosion is the fault of man-made works, yet river erosion was a factor long before the white man settled in British Columbia. Through the ages wildfire periodically swept over large regions of B.C. denuding watersheds of their protective covering of vegetation and setting the stage for floods and erosion. Forest fires are still a factor in creating the river sediment which today is partially responsible for the flooding and erosion of agricultural land adjoining rivers.

There is probably no matter on which less research has been done or more is needed than that of hearing how to control the sediment-carrying capacities of mountainous rivers and streams, and how by mechanical and other means to halt the erosion of some of the best agricultural land in such ways that it does not transfer a like problem to other lands downstream.

There are many known methods of correction against river erosion which vary according to the type of stream, such as ditching, mat-tressing, rip-rapping and groynes, but for many of the mountainous rivers and streams that experience fast-flowing spring freshets, the only answer would appear to be retaining dams. The cost of these dams may well be beyond the financial scope of the province or district, or both, and therefore their construction will be dependent on federal assistance by means of the suggested Soil and Water Conservation Act.

These retaining dams could serve a dual purpose, for over and above allowing the spring freshet water to come down to the fertile farmlands in more orderly and less damaging manner, the water held in these dams could be used for the irrigation of crop lands which is necessary in order to achieve maximum production per unit.

At the present time 27 per cent of B.C. farms are using irrigation on a total of 150,000 acres, of which 100,000 acres are irrigated solely by individual effort. Water Rights engineers estimate that there is a potential of another 500,000 acres for irrigation—land needed mostly for field crops as well as for hay and grain for livestock.

Federal aid towards bringing these lands under irrigation is necessary if we hope to compete with the million acres of the Columbia River Basin irrigation project being subsidized by the United States and supplying crops with which we have to compete on domestic markets.

The large, low-lying, fertile valleys and deltas such as we have at the mouth of the Fraser require dyke protection. At present we have 333 miles of dykes in this area.

Following the 1948 flood the repair and level of these dykes was raised by the aid of federal government grants. With the constantly changing course of such a tremendous body of water, the work on these dykes is continuous and should be an important part in any federal Conservation Act.

The rich river silt, especially in the deltas of the Fraser, in order to be brought into production requires drainage. This is a heavy expense to farmer or to municipality but one which they generally accept. Yet in order to put in an adequate scheme of drainage in even a comparatively small area requires extensive and expensive engineering surveys. Aid in making these drainage surveys would be another means whereby the proposed new Federal Act could help B.C. farmers.

Much of the million acres of potential arable lands is under heavy wooded growth, costing many areas a minimum of $200 per acre to have cleared. Because of the agricultural productivity of this soil money from the Federal Soil and Water Conservation Act could well assist in this major project.

As we interpret the new suggested federal legislation, it would mean enlarging the extension of the principles of PFRA so that it would be available to all of Canada for the purpose of farm rehabilitation as well as for soil and water conservation.

Because it would primarily deal with assistance to agriculture, we believe the terms of this new Act could only adequately be carried out under the federal department of agriculture.

So far as B.C. is concerned, we would prefer to see the provisions of this Act carried out similar to that of the Trans-Canada Highway, whereby after approving each scheme to be carried out, the federal government would give their proportionate grant, with the actual physical carrying out of the survey and the work under provincial government control.

Agricultural railway dept. head retires

WINNIPEG — James Duff Guild, one of western Canada's best known agriculturists, has retired as superintendent of agricultural development for Canadian National Railways.

During his 30 years with the CNR, Mr. Guild took an active role in a number of agricultural and livestock associations dedicated to the furtherance of agricultural science in the west. At present he is publicity chairman for the All Canada Swine Show to be held at Brandon next July.

Born at Whitehead, Man., Mr. Guild graduated from the University of Manitoba in 1924. He then served for three years as supervisor of illustration stations for the Dominion Experimental Farms Service for western Ontario, Manitoba and eastern Saskatchewan.

In 1927 he became assistant agricultural agent on joining the CNR at Winnipeg and was promoted to agricultural agent in 1930. He joined the RCAF in 1940 and for two years served as flight lieutenant in charge of recruiting in the Maritime Provinces. During World War I, Mr. Guild was awarded the DFC for service with the Royal Naval Air Service.

He returned to the CNR in 1943 as agricultural agent at Montreal, and later that year moved to Saskatoon in the same capacity. In 1945, he was named superintendent of agricultural development with offices at Winnipeg.

During his career with the CNR Mr. Guild also served as secretary-treasurer for the Manitoba Swine Breeders' Association; Manitoba Clydesdale Horse Club; Manitoba Percheron-Belgian Horse Club, and the Manitoba University Agricultural Graduates' Association. He was joint chairman of the Manitoba Faculty of Agriculture and Home Economics golden jubilee in 1956 and has been a member of the advisory committee, Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Act since its inception in 1953. He has also served as secretary for Canadian Society of Animal Production.

Electric railway finally cuts off passenger trains

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — The late Sir Adam Beck, "father" of the Ontario hydro system, might have shed a tear if he had seen what the modern age has done to the London and Port Stanley Railway.

Bowing to the automobile and mounting losses, the city-owned 25-mile electric road has discontinued passenger service after a century of operation. From now on it will use its lucrative freight traffic with coal and oil hauled from Port Stanley, and with transfer shipments from United States steam roads reaching St. Thomas. And it will be all diesel power, which Sir Adam probably wouldn't like.

One of the last surviving public-owned electric railways on the continent, the PLS in recent years had been the mecca for railroad fan clubs on both sides of the border which arranged excursions for sentimental and historic reasons.

It was Sir Adam Beck, with a burning hometown pride, who promoted electrification of the line back in 1915. Ontario Hydro Commissioner at the time as well as Conservative members of the legislature for London, he visioned St. Thomas a major railway hub with electric feeders running to other cities and towns.

The St. Thomas "hub" tolled a death knell to LPS passenger trains some months ago when LPS commissioners balked at spending $400,000 for a cycle changeover there. The final issue came before London ratepayers in December. When they voted against spending $400,000 to modernize passenger equipment.

Highway buses will take care of commuter, transient and picnic travel to St. Thomas and Lake Erie resort areas.

Slow death for the passenger service started with the end of wartime gasoline rationing. On a warm Sunday in August, 1945, motor traffic ran almost bumper to bumper between here and Port Stanley, while railway sales were only a trickle. On a warm July Sunday two years before that, the LPS carried 12,000 persons to the lakeside. In 1942, the LPS carried 1,500,000 passengers. Last year that had dwindled to 162,000. From tidy profits 10 years ago, passenger traffic deficits have been about $70,000 over estimates.

The London and Port Stanley Railway was built by private capital in 1856, financed with a stock issue of $150,000. The rolling mill country of the right-of-way was nice scenery, but a headache to the builders and they went $200,000 over estimates.

Early business wasn't good, and in 1857 London city council had to vote $30,000 to keep the road going. There was more trouble in that year when Port Stanley floods swept away the fuel supply for the wood-burning locomotives.

By 1874, the line was leased to the Great Western Railway, London had sunk in more money, and in the early 80's London found itself owning the road. The city and the Great Western feuded over freight losses, the Great Western pulled out all its rolling stock, and the line was turned over to the Michigan Central on a monthly basis.

Next lease was the old Lake Erie and Detroit Railway in 1893. The road survived good and bad years, and when the doughty Sir Adam had it electrified in 1915 it became London's pride. A smaller rival steam road, the Southwestern Traction Co., couldn't stand it and it folded within a year.

Canadians at the event included 40 from Alberta, 50 from B.C., and 24 from Saskatchewan, he reported. Two bagpipers in Scottish kilts played outside the entrance to the Art Gallery Thursday afternoon as the building overflowed with Canadians.

BOWLING TOURNAMENT The copy of the South Coast News, published in Laguna Beach, also told of a lawn bowling tournament between Laguna Beach residents and Canadian visitors.

William Hughes-Games, a former mayor of Kelowna, B.C., skipped his trip to first place in the prize department. With him were two persons from the Toronto area, the story.

A trio including G. A. McKay of Kelowna, fell to a 23-10 defeat. Another trio, including Mrs. W. B. Hughes-Games defeated a Laguna team, 22-8.

Teams were entered in the names of their skipper's home city. Thirty-five of the 78 bowlers who participated in the games were members of Canadian clubs.

Canadian Red Cross representatives have been serving in Austria since November 1, with a week of the Hungarian disturbances.

Tips on Touring

By Carol Lane
Women's Travel Authority

Much of your success as a driver depends on your attitudes. Emotional instability or maladjustment of any kind can seriously affect your driving ability, according to studies by Drs. Leon Brody and Herbert J. Stack of the Center for Safety Education, New York University.

For more than 20 years, psychologists have been studying the driver's habits—what causes him to court accidents, pay heavy fines, disregard simple courtesy for a fellow driver. They have come to the conclusion that the difference between a good and bad driver is not necessarily knowledge of skill but psychological traits called attitudes.

Attitudes have to do with the application of knowledge and skill. For example, how many times have you seen an impatient driver try to pass another on a curve? He probably knows very well why such an action is dangerous or unlawful. Yet, his attitude at the time makes him risk his life, violate the law.

Four attitudes are manifested in many different ways. Scientific studies show that drivers with bad records are apt to be aggressive or intolerant of others. They tend to resent authority and are inclined to have an exaggerated opinion of their importance and abilities. Many times they act impulsively and lack responsibility. Such attitudes are known to be caused by some basic fault in the individual's personality or by maladjustment as a result of unhappiness at the home, at work or in his relations with other people.

On the other hand, good attitudes on the road are generally shown by persons who are more than just safe drivers. Studies show that they are probably both good workers and citizens. Such good attitudes, however, may temporarily disappear. A so-called model driver may suddenly become preoccupied with a personal problem and forget his usual road habits. The studies also show that if a driver with good attitudes is subjected to continuing mental or emotional strain, he is apt to become a chronic violator.

ONE LESS COYOTE

WINNIPEG, Alta. (CP) — Pete Reberger, riding his horse home, came across three coyotes, and chased one into the farm yard where it was caught in a fence. Pete dismounted and killed it with his pocket knife.

By 1874, the line was leased to the Great Western Railway, London had sunk in more money, and in the early 80's London found itself owning the road. The city and the Great Western feuded over freight losses, the Great Western pulled out all its rolling stock, and the line was turned over to the Michigan Central on a monthly basis.

It cost a London, England family approximately $72 to hear the voice of their son in Kelowna last week. Ken Crombie, assistant-manager of the Paramount theatre said he talked to his parents for 14 minutes over the telephone.

Ken arrived in Canada about five months ago, originally intending to go to Toronto. On the way over on the boat, he met two boys from Vernon who convinced him that the Okanagan was the place to live.

The Vernon boys picked up a car in Toronto and Mr. Crombie accompanied them on the two week drive across Canada.

He said while he was working in Vernon, Walter Bennett, manager of the Capitol Theatre, told him there was a position open in the theatre here. He applied and landed the job.

Before coming to Canada, he spent two years in the Royal Artillery branch of the British Army. In Britain, two years' service is compulsory for young men.

Early explorer died in poverty 100 years ago

EDMONTON (CP)—A man who died in poverty and obscurity at Montreal 100 years ago has since been called the greatest land geographer in history.

He was David Thompson, courageous Welshman who explored in detail the vast hinterland which now is Western Canada—and mapped accurately all the territory he covered.

Born to an impoverished family in 1770, he moved with his family from Westminster to London and after his father's death was placed by a kind mentor in a charity school for boys. An apt pupil, he was particularly interested in mathematics, navigation and travel books. The Hudson's Bay Company requested the school to supply an apprentice and in 1784 he arrived at Church on Hudson Bay.

The stocky, dark-haired youth developed into a canny hunter and shrewd trading clerk.

Because he felt his exploring limitations were restricted, he left the Hudson's Bay Company four years after filling his seven-year apprenticeship, and joined the rival North West Company.

Here his abilities were given full play and mainly through his efforts, trading posts were set up farther and farther west, eventually reaching the Pacific Coast.

For his contribution to the company, Thompson was given the salary of a "wintering" partner for the two years he spent drawing a master map of the whole west.

Shortly after his 29th birthday, Thompson married Chipewite Small, any moose they shoot.

Importer finds market for burros as pets

Mrs. Ama Diebolt has had peculiar orders in her career as importer, but even she is surprised at the enthusiasm for Mexican burros. She set up business in Vancouver during the war, answering requests for hard-to-get items. After the war she just continued on and now her requests range from a 70-foot log to be used as a boat keel to out-of-print books. The first burros she imported were as a surprise present for a bank manager's wife. Now she has orders for 50 more, mostly from persons who want to make pets of the 40-inch-high patient, donkey-like animals.

Under the tower at Ottawa

By O. L. JONES, M.P.

As long ago as 1919 the Liberal Party at that time promised Canadian people that it would inaugurate a national health plan. At every convention since, they have repeated this promise and each year, while I have been a member, this matter has been brought up before parliament and the old promise has been renewed. But only recently did Health Minister Martin take a definite step towards implementing the promise. This he did by introducing a resolution for later discussion establishing a national health plan. Even the discussion will be delayed until the necessary six provinces agree to participate in the scheme. So far, British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan and Newfoundland are definite. Ontario is still hesitating but talks taking place between the two governments will iron out some of the disagreements regarding the details and it is fairly certain Ontario will be the fifth. Three other provinces, Manitoba, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia are still negotiating agreements. When one or more of these three consent to enter the scheme we will then have the necessary six.

DETAILS LATER

It is too early yet to say what the scheme will cover. Whether it will cover hospitals, medical services, dentistry and so on will only be decided when the bill itself appears before us. In the meantime, Mr. Martin has shown great reluctance to divulge any details. However, I feel that this is the most progressive step and brings us in line with some of the other leading world democracies that have operated national health plans for many years.

The plan will not interfere in any way with the operation or ownership of hospitals whether they be municipal institutions, owned by a community or hospitals directed by religious or other voluntary organizations.

He went on to say, "I am sure that the idea of state ownership or control of hospitals would be repugnant to the vast majority of the people of Canada."

The plan would also support the general practitioner and help him to serve his patients better. Mr.

Martin said that it would make it possible for him to take advantage of diagnostic services he now hesitates to recommend for some patients and he would be assured that all his patients would have access to hospital care regardless of ability to pay.

A grant of $10,000 has been made to carry out a survey of general medical practice in Canada. This survey will be carried out by the College of General Practice and the School of Hygiene of Toronto University. The object is to gather information regarding the type and volume of illness treated by general practitioners. Mr. Martin said there are some 12,000 physicians in private practice in Canada, 7,000 are general practitioners and 5,000 are specialists.

Recently, we had Prime Minister Guy Mollet of France speaking to a joint meeting of senators and MPs. He spoke of the close relationship between France and Canada and paid tribute to Hon. L. B. Pearson for the excellent work he had done at the U.N.

Then he dealt with his own problem in Algeria. He said that Algeria has been an expense to France for sometime as the revenues derived from the country itself have not met the expenditures the balance being contributed by the French government. He said that if France walked out today this country might be under some form of Communist rule within five years. There is no simple division between Arabs and Frenchmen in Algeria. Arabs are divided among themselves and the Europeans residing in Algeria include Spanish, Italians and many other racial types besides French.

He outlined the steps that would be taken to give this country self-government in the future. He dealt with Egypt's claim to the Suez Canal. He warned that the word sovereignty no longer means what it meant a century or two ago. Today the world is too interdependent for any one country to be allowed to control a service or a commodity that is necessary to all. Further that all countries must be prepared to surrender part of this sovereignty for the benefit of other nations. Based on such a theory is a common market plan for the European countries called Euratom. Under this scheme tariffs and trade barriers that now exist will be eliminated progressively so that ultimately the signatory nations in Europe will act as one economic entity.

Mr. Mollet received an ovation from the House and later on the members had an opportunity to meet him. It was during this informal meeting I was introduced to the French Ambassador who mentioned that he hopes to visit the Okanagan during the coming summer.

LOAN APPLICATIONS

The Canadian Farm Loans Board had a bill before parliament to increase its financial resources by 20 million dollars from the present 80 million to 100 million dollars. Several members were critical of the board because of the length of time it takes to process a loan application. It was also criticized for its policy of evaluating the farmers' land for loan purposes. The mildest criticism charged them with being too cautious. Invariably the boards land appraisal is well below the sale value of that property. This is particularly so with the valuation of fruit orchards. It seems the policy of the board is to discount entirely the value of the trees. I brought this to the attention of the government as I feel that we have many farmers whose request for a loan has been turned down to my mind unjustly. In fact, I know of cases where the Farm Loans Board turned down farmers who with the same assets and exactly the same conditions were able later to secure a loan from the orthodox banks and it seems to me that the operation of the farm loans board should be less stringent than the requirements of an orthodox bank when making a loan to our farmers.

Parking meter problems studied

PENTICTON—A complete check-up into parking meter operation, and changes in policy on terminal of meters were tentatively agreed to by city council last week. Several members of council expressed dissatisfaction regarding the failure to check up on meter violations.

This discussion was a continuance of one held at a recent meeting when it was stated citations in one block equalled "live" meters. Information will be obtained from other interior cities about their systems of handling meter operations.

"Our situation in this respect is not satisfactory and has not been for some time," said Alderman E. A. Titchmarsh. "I am of the opinion it is time we had better supervision of our parking meters."

Council agreed that if extra staff is required to do this job, the staff would be engaged, otherwise adjustments in the present arrangement will be established.

A request from H. Brummer for permission to "rent" a parking meter space near the new Lougheed building was granted by council.

At the same time it was agreed that a new policy with respect to such meter rentals would have to be established.

"We shall be faced with an increasing number of such requests," said Alderman J. G. Harris, in urging the establishment of a concrete plan to meet the need.

Council agreed that, once a plan is set up, the rental permits could be issued by the building inspector.

A further request for meter rental on a permanent basis was received from W. Marti, formerly of Kamloops, who is taking over the sheriff's office here, replacing H. J. Miller, who is retiring. Mr. Marti informed city officials that he had had such an arrangement in Kamloops. This request will be considered by council.

Industry heads give reports to BCFGA local

WINFIELD—A meeting of the Winfield-Okanagan Centre BCFGA local was held Friday in memorial hall with 21 members attending. George Whittaker spoke on behalf of the board of governors, and Sid Land gave a report for the executive of the BCFGA, and for the B.C. Fruit Processors.

He told the meeting all the products of the B.C. Fruit Processors were moving well and processors had been certified as members of the Teamsters Union. He also reported that in the 1955-56 crop year, processors had paid the growers about 4 million dollars.

Chairman of the local told the meeting that anyone wishing help in the preparation of a brief to present to Dean E. D. MacPhee as the Royal Commission hearing at Oyama, March 27, could receive help by contacting chairman Mel Kawano or secretary Alex Green, Duck Lake. If necessary, either one would read the report at the time of presentation.

In answer to a question from the floor, Mr. Whittaker is going to look into the British free trade area will effect the British Importing of Canadian apples.

Vernon mill rate may jump due to rising school costs

VERNON—Fears that the city's mill rate may take a jump this year have been expressed in civic circles following the presentation of the 1957 budget for School District No. 22. Showing an increase of $285,338 over last year's figure, expenditures for the district will total $1,066,945, of which Vernon's share will be $231,601—a jump of $64,000 over last year.

The city council's attempt to "hold the line" on taxes may be completely upset if this increase, plus other which could bring the total to $80,000 or more, are not met by corresponding increases in income.

The school budget, presented at last week's council meeting, showed estimated expenditures for the year totalling $1,076,945, with a net expenditure of $1,034,251.

"That's more than it costs to run the City of Vernon," Acting Mayor Jack Monk commented.

Biggest item on the bill of expenses is teachers' salaries, amounting to $425,005. Of this total $101,940 represents an excess over the amount on which provincial grants are paid, due to a "freezing" of grants on teachers' salaries in 1955.

There have been two increases in teachers' salaries since the government set the median salary schedule in 1955. J. R. Kidston, chairman of the school board stated, "Even when the salary schedule was set our expenditure on salaries was $18,096 over the limit."

"But what can you do? We have to pay existing salary rates to get teachers—whether the government pays the grants or not."

The ironic part of the whole thing, Mr. Kidston said, is the fact that the government will pay 75 per cent of salaries since other than teachers—an item that amounts to less than one-sixth of the total for teachers' salaries.

Of a total net expenditure of $1,034,251 for the year, the provincial government will pay $68,539 as its share. The remainder, $368,712 will be borne by the school district.

Of this amount Vernon will be assessed $231,601, with Coldstream paying $40,474 and the rural areas will be higher this year, and government grants will be increased, if only because of the city's increase in population.

Whether increased income will balance increased expenditures will be answered when the mill rate is set this spring.

United Nations Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld has begun work on long-range measures aimed at preventing a recurrence of conflict between Israel and Egypt. The problem was left in his hands when the UN General Assembly at New York adjourned its regular 11th session, after hearing an official report that Israel had completed the withdrawal of her troops from the Gaza Strip and the Sharm-el-Sheikh area.

The assembly is subject to recall if further action is needed on either the Middle East or Hungarian problems.

One of the most pressing problems is that of seeking agreement for UN forces to be stationed on both sides of the 1949 Palestine armistice line to prevent a renewal of raids across the border between Egypt and Israel. Many delegations feel such an arrangement is necessary to stabilize the border area. Although Israel has expressed firm opposition Mr. Hammarskjöld is expected to urge Premier David Ben-Gurion to reconsider.

CANAL CLEARANCE
Egypt has started preliminary work toward removal of the last major obstructions in the Suez Canal, but United Nations salvage authorities last weekend were still waiting a go-ahead for the final clearance.

Egyptian engineers began operations on the 841-ton tug Edgar Bonnet, sunk midway in the 103-mile waterway near Ismailia during last fall's fighting. They said they had to remove explosives from the vessel before it could be raised.

When the Edgar Bonnet and the 1,400-ton Egyptian frigate Abukir are raised, ships up to 10,000 tons will be able to sail the entire length of the canal. But Egyptian officials have made it clear this does not apply to Israeli shipping, which was barred even before the fighting last fall. Egypt maintains it is still technically at war with Israel despite the 1949 Palestine armistice.

CANADIANS IN EGYPT
Canadian and other United Nations troops, handed the problems and pitfalls of governing the Arab multitude in the Gaza Strip, have suggested the UN may have to recruit additional administrative help at New York.

Meanwhile, the UN relief and works agency teams which have been looking after most of the needs of the 200,000 Arab refugees in the strip are pitching in to help the military men in their new duties.

Reception in Gaza for the UN forces so far has been one of boisterous friendliness. Canadian service corps men, working around the clock on the buildup of men and supplies, are getting hearty cheers and salutes. Convoys have had difficulty getting under way because of the crowds trying to shake hands and demonstrate their welcome.

The UNEF patrols which moved in behind the withdrawing Israelis appear small in the face of the Arab hordes, but they are getting warm & operation and apparently genuine respect.

Communications still a big problem—gradually being solved by a Canadian army signals detachment. The general Canadian impression of Gaza, after some of the sandy desert service they have seen, was favorable. The towns and villages are festooned with spring blossoms and palm sprays. Arches feature the inevitable pictures of Egyptian President Nasser.

CHATHAM, Ont. (CP) — Sheriff A. S. Poulter is glad the thieves who stole a wheel from his car have some amount of respect for the law. "At least they left the brake drum," he commented.

Deer hunting within city limits

"Gateway of the North" is what Ada Pearson and other residents of North Bay, Ont., call their town which they hope will soon be the biggest city in area—in Canada. The town is seeking metropolitan status, that is, it wants the town limits extended to take in 52,000 acres. Inside its borders would be a nudist colony. Deer could be hunted 10 miles from the downtown offices. Good fishing could be had almost on the main street. And, climbing a forestry tower, you'd still be in the city even if you couldn't see a building.

DEFEAT PADLOCK LAW
It may be some time before the Quebec government decides whether to appeal to the Privy Council in London against the judgment of the Supreme Court of Canada, which last week ruled Quebec's padlock law invalid.

Premier Duplessis said at Quebec the written reasons for the judgment will be carefully studied before a course of action is decided upon.
An appeal could be carried to the judicial committee of the Privy Council since the case which led to the challenge of the padlock law was initiated before December 8, 1949, when appeals to London were abolished.

The 1937 Quebec padlock law, which authorizes the provincial attorney-general to issue a closing order—or padlock—on premises used to propagate Communism, was quashed by an eight to one ruling of the Supreme Court judges. It has been challenged by John Switzman of Montreal, whose Park Avenue apartment was locked by Quebec Provincial Police on January 27, 1949. He was a supporter of the Labor-Progressive (Communist) party and admitted his apartment was used to propagate Communism.

The Supreme Court upheld his appeal last week, ruling the law was outside the legislative powers of the province because it encroached on Parliament's exclusive jurisdiction over criminal law.

DRAMA IN MONTREAL
A ludicrously disguised gunman kept employees and customers in a Montreal bank quaking in terror for 20 minutes with threats to set off 39 sticks of dynamite, before being shot and wounded by police. They identified him as Andre Deslois, 28, a married man with an infant daughter. He was described as doing well in hospital.

A key found in his possession led police to a time-bomb device containing five more sticks of dynamite, overdue to go off in the Central Station.

The Victoria merry-go-round

By JAMES K. NESBITT

VICTORIA — Your MLAs have finally finished their Throne Speech and Budget debates of 1967, and are now engaged in voting money for the public service—$275,000,000 of your money—making new laws.

The annual sessional guessing game is now on—when will the session end? No one can say for sure, but at this moment it appears it would be all over March 22. However, you never can tell how long it'll last, once MLAs get underway.

The budget debate ended in a flurry of acrimonious wrangling. It was Friday—and sittings of the House are practically never held Friday evenings. But the Premier had made up his mind the budget debate would end that Friday, he being the boss of the Legislature—and when Mr. Bennett makes up his mind he's a very determined man indeed.

So, when at 6 p.m. Friday he called a night sitting, the CCF went into a tizzy. The CCF objected, there had been two night sittings to midnight that week already, when the Premier had said he didn't think there would be any night sittings this session.

The Premier objected to the CCF objecting to a night sitting. The Premier blurted out that the CCF doesn't appear much interested in attending to the people's business, but would, apparently, rather go a-partying instead. That did it; the CCF flew into a mass rage, and called the Premier a very rude man.

But Mr. Premier, with his vast majority all about him, had his way, and so there was a night sitting, and the A.G. Mr. Bonner, wound up the budget debate for the government. Then the Premier made a token start on the estimates but at 9:30 p.m. called the whole thing off. He had had his way!

Premiers always get their way in the Legislature, as long as they can depend on the support of their backbenchers. And Mr. Bennett has no worries in this regard—not yet, anyway. His backbenchers are the most loyal backbenchers in history; they know full well that without Mr. Bennett in the driver's seat the whole S.C. bandwagon would fly apart.

Health and Welfare Minister Eric Martin, a whimsical sort of fellow, an engaging chap, with a keen sense of humor and fun, who knows how to laugh at even himself, a rare gift, had himself a fine time when he spoke in the budget debate, and so did everyone else, even the CCFers, whom he needed, but he was so kindly, so friendly, so tongue-in-cheek that no one could take offence, even when he used some rough language, such as calling all politicians, other than S.C.'ers, "the forces of evil." And he got away with it, too!

Mr. Martin's said to be one of those dyed-in-the-wool S.C.'ers, one of those mysterious high priests of S.C. who get fed up because most people, for the life of them, can't understand what true-blue S.C.'s all about. Mr. Martin admits as much. He gets weary trying to explain the inner workings of S.C., and has just about given up in exhaustion.

Yes, what's the use of trying to explain S.C. when nobody will listen, sighed Mr. M., and so he summed it up this way: "The Social Credit philosophy is too complicated for most people to understand, but in spite of that we put it over, and we're giving the type of government the people like, because it's based solely on Social Credit."

Now, if anyone can make sense out of that, including Mr. Martin, this column would like to hear about it.

CCF'ers hooted at Mr. Martin, but they were good-natured hoots, and above the hub-bub Mr. Martin pointed a finger at the CCF and said: "You see—you still don't understand."

Mr. Uphill of Fernie made another speech, and he was the same old Tom. He was serious as he talked about old-age pensioners, and such, and then he pulled his old gag, which always makes such a hit. He fumbled about his desk as he searched for his notes, and he said: "Mr. Speaker, I seem to have lost everything but my character." Then he said he'd like to facilitate matters, and he'd run out of gas anyway, and since the Premier was giving a dinner for MLAs he'd like time to run around the Legislative Buildings a couple of times to work up a good appetite. Mr. Uphill will be 83 in June.

Council plans curb, gutter reconstruction

PENTICTON — Installation of new curbs and gutters for Main Street and reconstruction of concrete sidewalks in the 200 block on the main thoroughfare was discussed by city council last week.

The discussion of the projects arose out of a debate on purchase of a new sweeper. It was stated that no regular sweeper will get to the bottom of the present shallow semi-gutters on Main Street.

These gutters were put in hurriedly when the street was paved, and instructions for installation of proper curb and gutter were not carried out.

Alderman J. G. Harris, reporting on the sweeper, mentioned the gutter requirement to council as part of his report. He said that at present no costs of the gutter are available.

These figures will be obtained and kept available for consideration, if not this year, then in the 1968 budget.

Council members agreed that the curb and gutter work is necessary, as the present gutters are not fully adequate for storm water flow.

The dilapidated condition of the concrete walk in the 200 block was stressed, and it may not be possible to undertake the work this year, although members of council agreed it is a "must" for the no. too-distant future.

Decision to purchase a Wayne 550, four cubic-yard self-contained street sweeper, at a cost of $12,632.55 was finally approved by council. Two other machines, both costing considerably more, were in the final, but were ruled out as being too expensive for local needs.

If council agreed to dispose of the old sweeper, it was pointed out, an allowance of $600 would be made for it by the Wayne firm.

As there appeared to be no city use for it, and the parks board were reported to be uninterested in it for use in the arena, council will accept the trade-in offer.

Penticton airport runway may be reconstructed

PENTICTON — Alderman J. D. Southworth has reported that the runway at the Penticton airport may be reconstructed this year.

On receiving information to this effect from the federal department of transport, he said "I think the idea is to lengthen the field, possibly to as much as 8,000 feet. The present pavement is 5,300 feet long. With the additional length today's larger aircraft would be able to land or take off from the Penticton field without difficulty."

The plans by the department of transport also include construction of an equipment garage.

Pianos are like women — they should be chosen with a great deal of care!

A piano is like a woman... sensitive, responsive, highly-strung, easily affected by the weather, pleasant to look at and sweet-voiced when intelligently handled.

Unfortunately, many consider a piano in the same category as a child of the Victorian era... something to be seen and not heard. This is a pity. For those who play a piano as a dog or a cat, it reflects the mood of the person who plays it and can enrich the lives of everyone within earshot.

WOMEN BUYERS

Although a piano is a once-in-a-lifetime purchase, prospective buyers, most of whom are women, have little guide when shopping for one. Many buy by sight alone. Others think a piano is a piano, as long as the keys will go down, and make a sound. Few know what to look for in a good instrument.

For the guidance of those about to take the big step and buy a piano for the family, here are a few tips from a piano manufacturer:

1. There are three types of pianos... grand, upright and spinet. The latter is also known as a console or a vertical and is small in size than the upright, in keeping with modern furnishings.

2. If there are 88 keys, the keyboard is complete, even though the piano may be a small one.

3. The most important feature of a good piano is the tone... a likeable warm resonance throughout the full range of soft to loud playing and from high to low notes.

ACTION IMPORTANT

4. The action should be easy, should respond smoothly to rapid fingering.

5. Pianos have two or three pedals. The one on the right sustains or continues the tone, the left softens the tone. The third is not necessary but if present, it may sustain the bass section only or muffle the tone. On a grand is sustains one note.

6. Buy from a reputable firm which knows the difference in brands. Many brand names which were once placed on high-grade pianos, have been taken over by firms putting out cheaper instruments. Only an experienced person, well-informed about the piano industry, would know about this.

Once you have bought a piano, the next thing is to know how to take care of it so it will be able to serve you and your family as it was designed to do.

The tone of the piano can be regulated so that it is soft or brilliant, without any change in the basic quality. It is largely a matter of preference.

TUNING NECESSARY

A new piano should be tuned within six months of purchase. Temperature and humidity changes affect the strings and sounding board. If you wait a year or so to tune it the pitch drops and when it is fixed the whole instrument undergoes a tremendous change of tension. Within 30 days you can expect to tune it again. But the second tuning should settle the piano at a standard pitch. New pianos take time to settle or season.

The greatest proportion of the cost of a piano to a buyer is the labor involved in making it. A cheap piano can be turned out in about 30 days. A good instrument will take from nine months to a year to be completed. Cheap materials used in construction will result in poor tone... not only when new but as the piano ages. It may take on a "tin-panny" tone.

CABINETS VENEREED

Modern pianos have veneered cabinets... this is standard construction. Pianos are not made of solid mahogany or walnut or ebony. Walnut finish is the most popular today, with some of the blondest shades coming into favor to tone with other modern furniture. The term ebony means only that the color is black. Ebony is not used to make any parts of the piano cabinet, though occasionally the tops of the black keys are made of this material.

More children are studying piano today than ever before in spite of the movies, radio, television and other outside distractions that tend to make us a nation of watchers instead of participants.

Mothers are largely responsible for children studying music and have the burden of seeing they practice regularly. Mothers also have the biggest say in purchasing a piano.

Therefore, it behooves them to know what is quality. They cannot be expected to understand the inside working completely... the average piano has from 8,000 to 12,000 moving parts.

But they can learn to buy intelligently.

Most of us spend many minutes of every day just remembering. Mostly remembering to put out the milk bottles, to keep dentist appointments or to buy something for a friend's birthday—the chores that have to be done.

Other recollections go a lot deeper. Margaret McGregor, for instance, remembers many things as she makes a regular pilgrimage along the halls of the nurses' residence at Toronto Western Hospital, to place flowers beneath a plaque commemorating Nurse Edith Cavell.

Edith Cavell was a British nurse who helped Allied soldiers to escape from Belgium during the First World War. She was caught and shot by the Germans in 1915. Miss McGregor, then a teen-age British army nurse, stood outside the Brussels jail and heard the shooting.

Now 59 and working in a Toronto nursing home, Miss McGregor never has to be reminded of the devoted life of Nurse Cavell. Out of her memories come the offering of flowers.

LACE IN FASHION

Lace might be remembered as a heritage of grandmother's day retained as part of a traditional bridal outfit.

But lace was a fashion of aristocratic ladies and gentlemen—in the 15th and 16th centuries. And fashion-wise women today will recognize that lace is back with a bang.

For stylish dresses there's cotton lace in floral patterns and many colors, and exquisite French lace over tulle or other light weight materials for cocktail dresses.

Designers have conjured a way to promote daintiness and put lace on just about everything, using lace for collars, dress panels or inserts and as trim and trills for shirt-waist blouses and dresses.

ONCE WAS ENOUGH

When it comes to memories, Mrs. Edith Ronne will probably be a long time forgetting her trip to the Antarctic.

The 37-year-old Washington, D.C. housewife is one of two women who have set foot on the southern continent.

The wife of veteran explorer Captain Finn Ronne, she declares the Antarctic is a man's world. Her husband is returning for his fourth visit.

As for Mrs. Ronne's Antarctic visit, she says: "I wouldn't have missed it for a million dollars and I wouldn't go back for two million."

Rutland holds "open house" at schools

RUTLAND — Rutland Elementary and Junior-Senior High Schools held open house last Thursday evening. Teachers and parents conferred in the rooms and the visitors looked over the many displays of work in art, science, home economics, wood-working and all the various items that go to make up the modern school curriculum.

Special events included a badminton tournament in the gymnasium, a commercial demonstration in the library, a school band concert in the auditorium and a Junior Red Cross tea served in the cafeteria after 8 p.m. The PTA, held a hobby show in the auditorium, which was a great success. A surprising array of handicrafts and hobbies were to be seen, and some of the work was of exceptionally high order. The displays included many kinds of carving, leatherwork, wood-working, needlework, knitting and other similar items, stamp collections, photography, and many others. The surprising thing was the fact that busy people could find time to do all these things, some of which must have many long hours of patient work. The show was well supported by the community.

The Pathfinders group from the Seventh-day Adventist church put in a large and varied display, and former Rutland residents, the Oliver Jacksons, displayed many items of fine Indian beadwork and leatherwork. The PTA took in about $100 at the show. The band concert, with Mark Rose conducting the school band, was much enjoyed. Principal D. H. Campbell and all the members of the staff must have been highly pleased with the success of the second evening open house. Last year was the first time that Education Week was observed by holding open house in the evening, rather than during school hours, and the change seems to be accepted favorably.

Mrs. W. F. Schell is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Earl Minter, at Chilliwack.

Miss Kay Kitzpatrick was home for a short visit, returning Monday to her studies at the UBC.

The World Day of Prayer was observed on Friday afternoon last by the various women's groups of the Protestant churches in Rutland by a service at the Seventh-day Adventist Church. Mrs. Drutt presided at the service, assisted by Mrs. E. Muford and Mrs. R. G. Bury. Mrs. Arthur Geen gave the address, while minor parts in the service were taken by Mrs. S. Daniels, Mrs. E. Peel, Mrs. E. Cross, Mrs. W. Quigley, Mrs. D. Joad and Mrs. Richards. Mrs. Percy Andrews played the organ, and a vocal duet was given by Miss Jean Gabel and Mrs. L. Wentland.
